ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness of such alien seaman, or for the necessities of the vessel, until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has been informed by the master of such vessel that such alien seaman has been detained on board, and has given a bond with sufficient surety to insure the return of such alien seaman to the vessel or to the custody of the immediate transportation company, or to the agent thereof, when required to be returned under the provisions of this section or when ordered by the Secretary of Labor, in such penal sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman, as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, conditioned for the payment of a sum not to exceed $300 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such default occurs. The vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or while the sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such default occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the Attorney General. Such fine may be remitted or refunded in whole or in part by the Attorney General in the discretion shall think proper.

This section, as amended, shall apply to all deportation cases under proceedings instituted after June 2, 1940.

(f) Every alien seaman who shall not depart upon the discharge manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from a place outside thereof, or from whom a certificate of identification has been withheld by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart or depart after readmittance by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(g) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to deport any alien seaman on board such vessel when ordered so to do by an immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or who fails to deport any alien seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if detained by such immigration officer at the port, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or while the sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $500 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. This section, as amended, shall apply to all deportable aliens unspecified to June 2, 1924.

(b) Every such alien seaman who shall not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from such place outside thereof, or who is not reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be given such written notice to depart by the immigration officer at the port of arrival.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be cleared pending such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 150.1. Limit of alien employees; when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted the master, agent, consignee, owner, or charterer of any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has been informed that the employment of all alien members of the crew employed on such vessel will terminate upon departure of such vessel from the United States, except (a) alien members of the crew employed on a vessel which will depart directly to a foreign port or place contiguous to the United States, or to an island adjacent thereto, or to Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, Cuba, or the Panama Canal Zone, or (b) alien members of the crew employed on a vessel which will depart directly to a foreign port or place not contiguous to the United States, if such alien is a native of the country to which such vessel is destined and intends to return thereto and to remain there, and if the master, agent, consignee, owner, or charterer of such vessel has furnished a bond in the penal sum of $300 for each such alien member of the crew, conditioned upon the departure of such alien from the United States with the vessel on which employed or on some other vessel departing directly for a foreign port or place contiguous to the United States, or to an island adjacent thereto, or to Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, Cuba, or the Panama Canal Zone, within 30 days after the departure of the vessel on which employed, and upon the further condition that if such alien fails to depart as required, the obligors will pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or any bond given to secure the payment thereof in whole or in part, or may refund any money deposited in excess of the fine finally imposed, but no such refund shall be made in respect of any alien seaman who fails to depart as required by this section unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, shall think proper. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or any bond given to secure the payment thereof in whole or in part, or may refund any money deposited in excess of the fine finally imposed, but no such refund shall be made in respect of any alien seaman who fails to depart as required by this section unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, shall think proper. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or any bond given to secure the payment thereof in whole or in part, or may refund any money deposited in excess of the fine finally imposed, but no such refund shall be made in respect of any alien seaman who fails to depart as required by this section unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, shall think proper. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or any bond given to secure the payment thereof in whole or in part, or may refund any money deposited in excess of the fine finally imposed, but no such refund shall be made in respect of any alien seaman who fails to depart as required by this section unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, shall think proper. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or any bond given to secure the payment thereof in whole or in part, or may refund any money deposited in excess of the fine finally imposed, but no such refund shall be made in respect of any alien seaman who fails to depart as required by this section unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, shall think proper.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence to a hearing to determine whether a fine should be imposed under section 251 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 101), and the burden of proof shall be upon the master to show that such alien seaman did depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel departing directly for a foreign port or place contiguous to the United States, or to an island adjacent thereto, or to Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, Cuba, or the Panama Canal Zone, within the period specified in the bond, or that the departure of such alien seaman was prevented by sickness, accident, or other cause beyond the master's control. Clearance shall not be granted the master, agent, consignee, owner, or charterer of any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has been informed that the employment of all alien members of the crew employed on such vessel will terminate upon departure of such vessel from the United States, except (a) alien members of the crew employed on a vessel which will depart directly to a foreign port or place contiguous to the United States, or to an island adjacent thereto, or to Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, Cuba, or the Panama Canal Zone, or (b) alien members of the crew employed on a vessel which will depart directly to a foreign port or place not contiguous to the United States, if such alien is a native of the country to which such vessel is destined and intends to return thereto and to remain there, and if the master, agent, consignee, owner, or charterer of such vessel has furnished a bond in the penal sum of $300 for each such alien member of the crew, conditioned upon the departure of such alien from the United States with the vessel on which employed or on some other vessel departing directly for a foreign port or place contiguous to the United States, or to an island adjacent thereto, or to Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, Cuba, or the Panama Canal Zone, within 30 days after the departure of the vessel on which employed, and upon the further condition that if such alien fails to depart as required, the obligors will pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or any bond given to secure the payment thereof in whole or in part, or may refund any money deposited in excess of the fine finally imposed, but no such refund shall be made in respect of any alien seaman who fails to depart as required by this section unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, shall think proper.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention for hospital treatment, or for the purpose of obtaining treatment in a hospital for the sick, or for the purpose of receiving burial, or for the purpose of rendering assistance in case of shipwreck or other disaster, or for such other reasons as may be approved by the Secretary of Labor, and then only under such conditions as he may prescribe, and the decision of the Secretary of Labor shall be final as to the temporary landing of any such alien seaman. Any alien seaman employed on any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is notified that such alien seaman has been inspected and examined (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to depart with such seaman on board said vessel after such inspection or to depart with such seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has been inspected and examined (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived, or on some other vessel departing directly for a foreign port or place contiguous to the United States, or to an island adjacent thereto, or to Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, Cuba, or the Panama Canal Zone, within the period specified in the bond, or who departs from the United States within such period on any vessel other than that on which he arrived, unless the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel has been relieved from the payment of the bond given for the landing of such alien seaman, shall be deported in the manner provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. The list of changes of alien members for crews (Form I–418) shall not be delivered on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival a complete list of all the persons on board of such vessel, whether they be passengers or members of the crew, and concerning each and every one of them before the vessel shall be granted clearance papers, which list shall be subscribed and sworn to before the said officer by the master of such vessel, and shall contain such information as may be required by the Attorney General and the Secretary of Labor, touching the right of each person to enter the United States, which list shall be filed with the said immigration officer, or his successor, who may be present when the vessel is inspected by the medical officer of the port, or at such other time as may be specified by the said immigration officer: Provided, That in case of the loss or destruction of such list, or in case of the failure to include therein the name of any person entitled to be included therein, the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall be severally liable to a penalty of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct information is not furnished, to be recovered as hereinafter provided: And provided further, That the master of any vessel may, in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, be granted a permit to land in the United States, under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, alien seamen employed on such vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of North America, or the islands adjacent thereto (which immigration officer at the port of arrival shall be notified by the master of such vessel at the time of the vessel's entry), to perform temporary service or labor at such port or ports in connection with the actual loading or unloading of cargo, or both, during the stay of such vessel in port, and to depart on such vessel with the crew member or crew members employed thereon, upon the certification of the master of such vessel and the payment of a tax of $8 per month or fraction of a month for each such alien seaman, which certification shall be subscribed and sworn to before the said immigration officer at the time of the arrival of such vessel at such port, and which payment shall be made to the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such permit to land any alien seaman in respect of whom such alien fails to depart on the vessel on which he arrived, or on any other vessel leaving the same port, and may cause any such alien seaman to be arrested and taken on board any vessel about to depart from such port to the country to which such alien belongs, and may cause any such alien seaman to be detained on board until the departure of such vessel from the port. Any master who knowingly employs any alien seaman who has not been granted a permit to land, or who knowingly permits any such alien seaman to land in the United States, except temporarily because of illness or injury requiring his hospital treatment, or who fails to deport any such alien seaman when required so to do by the Attorney General, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such sum as the collector of customs may deem sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman employed, and may remit any fine incurred under the provisions of this section upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. The action of any officer of the United States in granting clearance shall not be conclusive.

(b) Proof shall be taken and the decision rendered independent of the vessel on which the alien seaman arrived, and may be made from data obtained from any place outside the United States, and such decision shall be subject to review by the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be finally charged against the vessel until such expense has been paid in the payment finally required to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness which in the opinion of the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 168.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for the purpose of receiving his clearance papers or other necessary papers, or because of illness which in the opinion of the medical officer in charge at the port of arrival makes him inadvisable to proceed with the vessel, or for the purpose of receiving medical treatment, or because of the refusal of the consul of the country to which the master, owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel desires to proceed to issue a visa, or because of the refusal of the immigration officer at the port to which the master, owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel desires to proceed to grant admission to such alien, or because of the refusal of the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit the same. The provisions of this section, as amended, shall apply to all deportable alien seamen specified in section 2. 1940.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily permitted by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived for deportation to the satisfaction of the Attorney General. Clearance shall not be granted such vessel until such expenses and penalty shall have been paid or the payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General. (43 Stat. 164–165, 58 Stat. 818; 8 U. S. C. 161 (a), 161 (c).)

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of aliens to whom information must be given (Form I-418) shall not be returned or mailed, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port of entry (Form I-419) shall be prepared in the form of a manifest, a duplicate to that effect being made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection of aliens seeking admission, include names of arriving American citizens seeking admission as well as aliens.

Sec. 23. That upon arrival in the United States from any foreign port of a vessel in the ports, comma-nders, or masters thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival lists containing the names of all persons, except cabin passengers, who may be admitted to the port of arrival: or lists containing so much of such information as may be required by the Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe: and such lists shall be prepared and delivered at such time before the departure of the said vessel from the last port at which it touched as the Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe: and before the vessel shall depart from the port of arrival a description of such alien, together with such information likely to lead to his apprehension: and before the departure of the said vessel from any port other than a port of arrival for the United States from any alien concerning whom information is required by the Attorney General, the master of such vessel shall furnish to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival information in addition to that required in the lists concerning such alien as may be required by the Attorney General. All such lists shall be signed and sworn to by the master or commander of the vessel and by the surgeon, if there be one, and shall be delivered to the immigration officer at the port of arrival and shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. (43 Stat. 162; 8 U. S. C. 180.)

Sec. 24. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to comply with any of the requirements of section 23 of this Act or who refuses or fails to deliver to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival and to any other immigration officer when requested to do so any list required by section 23 of this Act, or any additional information respecting the same or the persons mentioned therein which may be required by the Attorney General, or who refuses or fails to detain any alien on board any vessel when ordered to do so by any immigration officer, or who refuses or fails to prevent any such alien from landing in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or who refuses or fails to deliver any such alien who has been certified by a medical officer for observation to special inquiry, or who refuses or fails to comply with the regulations of the Attorney General governing the detention on board vessels or other means of transportation or removal of aliens who have been refused admission to the United States, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which the port is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to pay any fine or penalty imposed under the provisions of this section, or while any such fine or penalty remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such liability upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine or penalty with the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application at any time, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each alien in respect of whom such fine or penalty is incurred, and shall have sole authority to remit or cancel any such fine or penalty where it is shown to his satisfaction that no person was knowingly concerned in the violation of this section, or that for other reasons the justice of the case requires remission or cancellation of the fine or penalty. The decision of the Attorney General as to the facts in all cases under this section shall be final.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart from the United States on a vessel on which he arrived in the United States may be made before the Commissioner General of Immigration or before a special inquiry officer at the port of arrival or at any other place designated by the Commissioner General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States would cause undue hardship to such seaman, because of the length of time he may be required to wait for the departure of such vessel, or for any other reason, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported on another vessel or in any other manner he may deem proper, but such alien seaman shall not be entitled to any refund of the amount paid by the master of the vessel on which he arrived for the transportation of such alien seaman. (43 Stat. 161; 8 U. S. C. 181.)

Sec. 25. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such temporary illness as may render his removal on board the vessel unsafe, or for the purpose of obtaining treatment or hospitalization as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation, removal, or repatriation of such alien seaman from the United States. (43 Stat. 161, 8 U. S. C. 183.)

Sec. 26. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel which lands in the United States from any place outside thereof any alien who has been refused admission to the United States, or who fails to detain on board any vessel any alien liable to be excluded on account of disease, or who fails to report the illness or death on board any such alien, or to deliver to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival any such alien for inspection, or who fails to detain any alien seaman employed on such vessel for such period as may be required by the Attorney General, or who refuses or fails to remove any such alien seaman upon the request of the Attorney General, or who refuses or fails to comply with the regulations of the Attorney General governing the detention on board vessels or other means of transportation or removal of aliens who have been refused admission to the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district at which the port is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to pay the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application at any time, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each alien in respect of whom such fine or penalty is incurred, and shall have sole authority to remit or cancel any such fine or penalty where it is shown to his satisfaction that no person was knowingly concerned in the violation of this section, or that for other reasons the justice of the case requires remission or cancellation of the fine or penalty. The decision of the Attorney General as to the facts in all cases under this section shall be final.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart from the United States on a vessel on which he arrived in the United States may be made before the Commissioner General of Immigration or before a special inquiry officer at the port of arrival or at any other place designated by the Commissioner General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States would cause undue hardship to such seaman, because of the length of time he may be required to wait for the departure of such vessel, or for any other reason, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported on another vessel or in any other manner he may deem proper, but such alien seaman shall not be entitled to any refund of the amount paid by the master of the vessel on which he arrived for the transportation of such alien seaman. (43 Stat. 161; 8 U. S. C. 181 (a), 181 (c).)

ALIEN SEAMEN

Sec. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such temporary illness as may render his removal on board the vessel unsafe, or for the purpose of obtaining treatment or hospitalization as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation, removal, or repatriation of such alien seaman from the United States. (43 Stat. 161, 8 U. S. C. 183.)

Sec. 26. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel which lands in the United States from any place outside thereof any alien who has been refused admission to the United States, or who fails to detain on board any vessel any alien liable to be excluded on account of disease, or who fails to report the illness or death on board any such alien, or to deliver to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival any such alien for inspection, or who fails to detain any alien seaman employed on such vessel for such period as may be required by the Attorney General, or who refuses or fails to remove any such alien seaman upon the request of the Attorney General, or who refuses or fails to comply with the regulations of the Attorney General governing the detention on board vessels or other means of transportation or removal of aliens who have been refused admission to the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district at which the port is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to pay the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application at any time, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each alien in respect of whom such fine or penalty is incurred, and shall have sole authority to remit or cancel any such fine or penalty where it is shown to his satisfaction that no person was knowingly concerned in the violation of this section, or that for other reasons the justice of the case requires remission or cancellation of the fine or penalty. The decision of the Attorney General as to the facts in all cases under this section shall be final.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart from the United States on a vessel on which he arrived in the United States may be made before the Commissioner General of Immigration or before a special inquiry officer at the port of arrival or at any other place designated by the Commissioner General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States would cause undue hardship to such seaman, because of the length of time he may be required to wait for the departure of such vessel, or for any other reason, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported on another vessel or in any other manner he may deem proper, but such alien seaman shall not be entitled to any refund of the amount paid by the master of the vessel on which he arrived for the transportation of such alien seaman. (43 Stat. 161; 8 U. S. C. 181 (a), 181 (c).)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will result in undue hardship to such seaman in respect of whom such finding is made, the Attorney General may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(b) Every alien seaman who does not depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived or on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived shall be detained on board or at such place as may be designated by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, pending the completion of such investigation and the final determination of the case. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such detention upon the deposit of such sum, or upon the filing of such bond or undertaking, with sufficient surety, as he may deem sufficient to secure the payment of such fine or fines as may be imposed under the provisions of this section, and to assure the performance of such duty or duties as may be required in connection therewith. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such detention upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, in an amount not exceeding $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such finding occurs. Upon such refusal the Attorney General in his discretion shall refund the deposit or cancel the bond. The section as amended shall apply to all deportable aliens independent of June 5, 1940.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from a place outside thereof, or shall be removed by the master of such vessel as a passenger, shall be taken care of and maintained at the expense of the owner of such vessel pending the completion of the investigation of his case and his departure or deportation from the United States, unless the master of such vessel shall deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a sum sufficient in the opinion of such officer to defray the cost of such maintenance for a period not exceeding five days, and shall furnish a bond with sufficient surety in a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or cancel such bond upon the substitution of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of such fine or fines as may be imposed under the provisions of this section, and to assure the performance of such duty or duties as may be required in connection therewith

Such card shall contain the name of the alien, his age, sex, nationality, last residence, calling or occupation, final destination, whether going to join relatives or friends, and if so, what relatives or friends, whether he has a ticket through to his final destination, whether his passage is paid by himself or by others, whether in possession of money, and if so how much, whether he has been in the United States before, and if so when and how long he resided there, whether he is going to join any relative or friend in the United States, and if so, what relative or friend and where, whether he has ever been in prison or almshouse or supported by charity, whether a polygamist, whether an anarchist, whether coming by reason of any offer, solicitation, promise, or agreement, expressed or implied, to perform labor in the United States, and what his occupation is. Each alien shall be required to write in a space to be provided on said card his name in full and the date and place of his last entry into the United States, and the name of the vessel in which he arrived. The said manifests shall be prepared and delivered by the master of the vessel at the time of the departure of the vessel from the last port outside the United States, and shall be sworn to before the commissioner of immigration at the port of arrival within the United States of all such aliens at the time of the departure of the vessel from the last port outside the United States. Upon the arrival of the vessel at a port within the United States the master shall deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival the said manifests and cards of all such aliens, and no such alien shall be allowed to land in the United States unless and until he has been duly inspected and admitted by the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival. Any master who shall refuse to deliver such cards or manifests, or who shall fail to account for any alien who shall have been taken on board his vessel for a foreign port and who shall land in the United States, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master who shall land or permit to land any alien from his vessel at any port in the United States, except in case of distress, without having delivered the list or lists of passengers required by this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien so landed, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master who shall refuse to allow any immigrant inspector to go on board of his vessel for the purpose of inspecting the same and the passengers and crew thereof, or who shall refuse to detain any alien on board his vessel after notification and demand so to do by the immigrant inspector in charge, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such refusal, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master who shall land any alien on any wharf within the United States, so as to evade the examination of such alien by the immigrant inspectors at the port of arrival, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien so landed, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master who shall fail to detain any alien on board his vessel after notification and demand so to do by the immigrant inspector in charge, or who shall land or permit to land any alien from his vessel at any port within the United States, except at the designated port of landing, without having given the notice and obtained the permits required by the immigration laws and regulations in force at the time, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien so landed, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master who fails to report, deliver, or produce any alien seaman for inspection or examination, or who shall land or secrete, or attempt to land or secrete, any alien seaman in the United States, or who refuses to detain any such alien seaman on board his vessel or to take him to the immigration station for examination, or who refuses to pay the cost of his maintenance while so detained, or who refuses to defray any expense which may be incurred in the proper care and maintenance while in the United States of any such alien seaman, or who refuses or fails to deliver any such alien seaman on board his vessel when required so to do by the immigrant inspector in charge, or who refuses or fails to make complete and accurate answer to all questions touching the immigration, nationality, right to land, and the detention and removal of such alien seamen as may be asked by any immigrant inspector, or who refuses to furnish the bond required by section 35 of this Act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman with respect to whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of any fine imposed under the provisions of this section, and the Secretary of Commerce may withhold clearance in case any such fine is not paid or sufficient bond given for the payment thereof after the same is finally determined by the proper tribunal. (39 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 168.)

SEC. 38. (A) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof (other than foreign contiguous territory) any alien who is not in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa, or other document required by section 2 of this Act, or who is afflicted with any of the mental or physical defects or diseases specified in section 3 of this Act, or who is not clear as to right to land, or who has been deported under any of the provisions of this Act, and who is refused a landing by the United States immigration officer at the port of arrival, shall be required to remove such alien from the United States to the country whence he came or to the country from which he embarked, or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen, within such time as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor, and shall pay the cost of his maintenance while he is detained awaiting such removal and of his removal. SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or from any possession of the United States to any port therein, it shall be the duty of the master, purser, or other person in charge thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those so to be hired or discharged in the port of arrival; or lists containing so much of such information as may be required by the Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe; and after the arrival of such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with such information likely to lead to the arrest of such alien; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who subsequently shipped or signed on such vessel; and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired to and discharged from such vessel, if any, who have deserted or landed; and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver either of the lists required, or in case of the failure of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or master to report as to deserting or landing aliens, he shall pay to the Attorney General, for the use of the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port is situated, a sum not exceeding $300 for each alien in respect of whom any such failure occurs, the payment of which sum may be enforced by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $50 for each alien in respect of whom any such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. This section, as amended, shall apply to all departures during and subsequent to June 2, 1940.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such seaman for medical treatment, or inability to such by reason of sickness or injury certified by the medical officer of the United States service at the port of departure, or to account for his absence by certificate of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel, or by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or by the certificate of the consular officer of the United States at the port where the alien seaman was signed on the vessel, that he has been duly accounted for.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 36. That every alien arriving at a port of the United States from a foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver at the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens on board the vessel, stating the location there occupied, whether in the cabin, steerage, or other part of the vessel, the last residence, and such information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, which lists shall be prepared and delivered at such time and place and in such manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, and shall be subject to such verification, before and during the inspection of such aliens, as the Commissioner General of Immigration may prescribe. Such lists shall be signed by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of the vessel, and shall be sworn to before an immigrant inspector at the time of the last inspection of aliens before the vessel leaves the last port outside the United States. Such masters, owners, agents, consignees, or pursers shall furnish to the immigrant inspectors at the time of inspection such additional information required by the said lists as may be in their possession concerning any such alien. Such masters, owners, agents, consignees, or pursers shall also furnish, upon the request of an immigrant inspector, a list or manifest of the persons on board such vessel, in addition to the list required to be delivered before the departure of the vessel from a foreign port for the United States, containing such particulars concerning each person on board as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, which list or manifest shall be produced and remain in the possession of the master of the vessel until the vessel has been inspected by the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, but shall be delivered by the master to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival. SEC. 150.1. Limit to alien employees; when clearance to vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the master thereof has complied with the immigration laws and regulations with respect to all alien employees, or persons coming on board such vessel at any foreign port or place, and has delivered to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival lists and manifests of such employees, and has paid the head tax of $8 for each such employee, unless specifically exempted by law. Clearance may be withheld by the collector of customs pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such tax. Clearance will be granted by the collector of customs to any vessel notwithstanding the existence of a ground for refusal of clearance, if the master of such vessel deposits with the collector of customs a bond in such amount, not exceeding $2,000, as the collector may require, conditioned upon the payment of any head tax which may be found due from the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, and upon the delivery to the proper immigrant inspector at the next port of call in the United States of the lists and manifests required by the immigration laws and regulations, unless clearance is sooner granted by the collector of customs. Clearance may be refused to any vessel which has been granted clearance, or which has cleared without clearance, if the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel has failed to comply with the immigration laws and regulations, or with any requirement made by the collector of customs pursuant to the provisions of this section. Clearance refused to any vessel for failure to comply with the immigration laws and regulations may be granted by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, or by the collector of customs, upon the production of satisfactory evidence that the immigration laws and regulations have been complied with.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States (42 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.) [sic] shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to attend to matters connected with the vessel, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the sufficient detention of such alien seaman, including such bond and security as may be required, and for his certain removal on board or to the vessel or foreign port from which he came to the United States, or to the country in which he shipped, at the option of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of the vessel: Provided, That clearance may be granted to such vessel without the removal of such alien seaman if the master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of the vessel shall deposit with the collector of customs a bond in such amount, not exceeding $2,000, as the collector may require, conditioned upon the removal of such alien seaman on board or to the vessel or foreign port aforesaid within such time as the Attorney General may direct. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of any vessel who shall refuse to remove any alien seaman employed on such vessel from the United States when ordered so to do by the Attorney General, or who shall refuse to detain any such alien seaman on board such vessel when ordered so to do by the Attorney General, or who shall refuse to pay the expenses of the maintenance of such alien seaman while detained by the Attorney General, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both. When an alien seaman, including seamen of alluring American citizen seamen as well as aliens, has been ordered removed from the United States, and the Attorney General is unable to secure his removal as provided in this section, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of other aliens ordered deported who do not have the means with which to pay their passage. (43 Stat. 162, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

(a) If any master, purser, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel shall refuse to detain any alien seaman employed on such vessel when ordered so to do by the Attorney General, such master, purser, agent, consignee, or owner shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which the port of departure of such vessel is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such refusal occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the Attorney General as to do so, and then only upon the deposit of such sum. Any such sum shall be remitted or refunded if within four months from the date of the refusal to detain such alien seaman on board such vessel the Attorney General shall inform the collector of customs that such alien seaman has been lawfully landed in the United States, or has been granted the privilege to remain therein temporarily, or has been returned to the country from which he came to the United States, or to the country in which he shipped, at the option of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of the vessel, or has been otherwise removed from the United States at the expense of the vessel or of any person who has deposited such sum or given bond in connection with the removal of such alien seaman, including seamen of alluring American citizen seamen as well as aliens.

(b) Every alien seaman, or person coming on board such vessel at any foreign port or place, who is ordered by the Attorney General to be detained on board or to the vessel or foreign port from which he came to the United States, or to the country in which he shipped, at the option of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of the vessel, and who is not so detained, shall be deemed to be unlawfully in the United States, and shall be arrested and deported in the manner provided for the deportation of other aliens unlawfully in the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of any alien cannot be effected by reason of the inability to secure passage to a foreign port willing to receive such alien, or by reason of the refusal of the government of the country to which such alien seaman belongs to receive and grant landing privileges to such alien seaman, or by reason of the failure of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States to comply with the provisions of this section, such alien seaman shall be treated as a deserter, and shall be subject to the penalties prescribed by the laws and regulations relating to deserting alien seamen.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived, or on some other vessel, within the period of time allowed by the Attorney General, shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of other aliens unlawfully in the United States.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that any alien seaman has been granted the privilege to remain temporarily in the United States, and that such alien seaman is unable to support himself during such temporary period, he may cause such alien seaman to be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of other aliens unlawfully in the United States, and such alien seaman shall not be entitled to any preference or priority in obtaining a visa as an immigrant.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 31. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to the extent and under such regulations as such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alien seaman, and to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival may grant permission to such seaman (which permission in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners). Any such seaman who shall land in the United States from any place outside thereof to which he may be transferred for hospital treatment or observation, or who may be detained for the public service, shall not be deemed to have been admitted to the United States. Upon the certification by the medical officer in charge that any such seaman is helpless or dangerously ill, he may be permitted to land temporarily without the payment of the bond required by section 2 of this Act. Upon the certification by the medical officer in charge that any such seaman is helpless or dangerously ill, he may be permitted to land temporarily without the payment of the bond required by section 2 of this Act. Upon the certification by the medical officer in charge that any such seaman is helpless or dangerously ill, he may be permitted to land temporarily without the payment of the bond required by section 2 of this Act.

SEC. 32. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof to which such seaman may be destined or on board which such seaman may be found after such seaman has been discharged from such vessel, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which such vessel arrives $1,000 for each alien seaman on board at the time of such vessel's arrival in the United States from any place outside thereof to which such seaman may be destined or on board which such seaman may be found after such seaman has been discharged from such vessel, except that if such seaman has been transferred to the United States Public Health Service for treatment or observation, the payment of $1,000 for each such seaman may be waived by the Attorney General. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such sum, or while any such sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond satisfactory thereto to secure the payment thereof.

(b) Proof shall be made to the satisfaction of the master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof that every alien seaman on board such vessel has been reported to the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such proof is furnished, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the liability to the payment of such sum upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of any alien seaman on board any vessel at the expense of the master of such vessel is impracticable or inconvenient, he may cause such alien seaman to be detained on board or at such other place as may be designated by the Attorney General, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such alien seaman has been so detained or the expense of such detention has been paid or a sufficient sum deposited to cover such expense has been paid to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

VERIFICATION OF THE MASTER OR COMMANDING OFFICER, OR FIRST OR SECOND OFFICER

I, Pedro de Haan Andrade, of the age Spanish, do declare that the foregoing is a full and true list of all the crew brought in said vessel from any port or place stating the present country of which I am now a citizen or subject, and the country of which I was a citizen or subject immediately before I shipped on board this vessel, and the country from which I came to the United States, and the reason why I left my native country, and the place where I intend to go, and the part of the vessel occupied by each person during the passage, and the time each has been on board, and that the entries in the column headed "Remarks" are correct; that I have made due inquiry into the character of the crew, and that to the best of my knowledge and belief no one of them is an anarchist, or a person who believes in or is opposed to organized government, or who advocates or teaches the duty, necessity, or propriety of the unlawful assaulting or killing of any officer either of the United States or of any other organized government, because of his official character, or who is a polygamist, or who believes in the practice of polygamy; that no one of them has been convicted of any crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, except as follows: none; that no one of them is under contract or agreement to perform labor in the United States, its Territories, or the District of Columbia, except as follows: none; that no one of them has been induced or solicited to migrate to this country by any offer, promise, agreement, or assurance of employment

That alien arrivals of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival list or lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the position they respectively hold in the ship's company, who and where they were respectively before the embarkation at the port, and the intended final destination of each alien, together with such information likely to lead to the identification of each alien as the Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe; and alien members of the crew not entered on the list delivered at the port of arrival shall be subject to the provisions relating to aliens applying for admission at the ports of entry of the United States. Any owner, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to deliver such list or lists, or who shall refuse to permit any immigrant inspector to come on board such vessel for the purpose of inspecting the same, or who shall refuse or fail to detain on board any alien when ordered by the Attorney General so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $300 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. The Attorney General may, upon application, mitigate such penalty or any part thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, and upon the payment of a sum sufficient for the purpose, cause any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port to be detained on board or at quarantine subject to such conditions as he may prescribe, pending the determination of such alien seaman's right to land, and may, in his discretion, parole any alien seaman into the United States temporarily for the purpose of medical treatment, but in the case of every such alien seaman paroled into the United States a sufficient sum of money to pay the cost of his hospital treatment, and his maintenance while in a hospital, and his return passage to the port from which he came to the United States, shall be deposited with the Attorney General by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived, and no such alien seaman shall be allowed to land in the United States under the immigration laws unless a sufficient sum of money to pay the cost of such hospital treatment and return passage is deposited as herein provided. Upon the recommendation of the Attorney General, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, any such alien seaman may be granted a parole for the period of one year, which parole may be extended in the discretion of the Attorney General and upon the recommendation of the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, for additional periods of one year each, and upon the termination of such parole such alien seaman shall be returned to the country from which he came to the United States, or to the country of which he is a subject, citizen, or denizen, at the option of such alien seaman, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States during the period of his parole, and who shall remain therein after the termination thereof, shall be deported as an alien who entered the United States without inspection. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel at any port or place other than a port or place designated by the immigration officer in charge of the port for the inspection of alien seamen, or who shall land in the United States from any vessel at any time when the immigration officer in charge of the port has refused to grant such alien seaman a permit to land, shall be deported as an alien who entered the United States without inspection. SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart on board the vessel such alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner) or who fails to depart on board such vessel after such inspection or to depart in such other manner as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, or who fails to pay the collector of customs the tax imposed by section 1 of the Seamen's Act, or who fails to comply with such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not attempt to depart on the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel permission to depart on such vessel shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart or depart after employment by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that any vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel permission to depart on such vessel, has on account of the failure of such seaman to depart become liable to any expense in the maintenance, medical treatment, or burial of such seaman, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be cleared or granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

SEC. 16. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any foreign port any alien who is afflicted with any of the following-named diseases or defects, namely, idiocy, imbecility, epilepsy, insanity, tuberculosis, leprosy, favus, trachoma, chronic alcoholism, active syphilis, or any loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, shall be required to detain such alien on board or at quarantine until a certificate from a surgeon of the United States Public Health Service has been secured stating that such alien has been duly inspected and found not to be afflicted with any of such diseases or defects, and such certificate shall be delivered to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival before such alien shall be admitted or permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or to be returned to the country whence he came, at the option of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, and the cost of such detention or return shall be borne by such master, agent, consignee, or owner. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the requirements of this section shall be subject to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom such refusal or neglect occurs. Any vessel which is required by this section to detain any alien on board thereof shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each day such alien is detained beyond the time prescribed for his departure, and such vessel may not be granted clearance while any such penalty remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty or of a bond with sufficient sureties to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(d) Proof that an alien seaman did not attempt to depart on the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel permission to depart on such vessel, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart or depart after employment by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor or the collector of customs.

(e) If the Secretary of Labor finds that any vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel permission to depart on such vessel, has on account of the failure of such seaman to depart become liable to any expense in the maintenance, medical treatment, or burial of such seaman, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be cleared or granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

in possession of a passport, and if so, by what government, when, and where issued, and whether he has been refused a passport by any foreign government to which he has applied, and if so, when and institution, society, or source, and if so, what institution, society, or source, and whether the immigrant intends to return to the country whence he came after temporary residence in the United States, and whether he has been deported or excluded from the United States, and if so, when and the cause therefor, and whether he has been convicted of any crime or misdemeanor, and if so, what crime or misdemeanor, and whether he is coming to the United States to avoid military service, and whether he has ever been a soldier or sailor in any army or navy, and if so, what army or navy, and been engaged in the business of importing women for immoral purposes, and whether he is coming to the United States for that purpose, and whether he has been guilty of a felony or other infamous crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, and whether he has been pardoned or has served the sentence imposed upon him, and such other facts as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, touching the admissibility of such aliens to the United States. The master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of every such vessel shall subscribe to the truth of such list before the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival and deliver the list to the inspector. The master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of every such vessel shall also deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a separate list or manifest of all aliens employed on such vessel who are destined to ports in the United States after the vessel's arrival at the port of arrival, which list or manifest shall contain as to each such alien all the information required by this section as to aliens who are passengers. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or purser of any such vessel who shall refuse or neglect to deliver any list required by this section, or who shall refuse to subscribe to the truth of such list, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such information is required to be furnished, but not delivered, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Secretary of Labor may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or any part thereof.

(b) Every alien in an alien seaman did not appear upon the customs manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily on the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such list or manifest of such alien.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States would cause undue hardship to such seaman by reason of the time required for his replacement, or cause loss to the vessel on which he arrived, due to the refusal of foreign authorities to permit the return of such seaman, the Attorney General may cause such seaman to be detained on board such vessel or at such other place as he may designate pending the departure of such vessel from the United States, if security is furnished by the master of such vessel in such sum and under such conditions as the Attorney General shall prescribe for the faithful performance by the master of such vessel of the obligations imposed upon him by this section. Compliance with the provisions of this section may be waived by the Attorney General upon the production of other evidence sufficient to satisfy him that the purposes of this section will be accomplished.

No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or emergency requiring his removal, or for deportation of such alien from the United States. SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to deport on board thereof any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to deport such alien seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer to those of the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. (b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the customs manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily on the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such seaman.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States would cause undue hardship to such seaman by reason of the time required for his replacement, or cause loss to the vessel on which he arrived due to the refusal of foreign authorities to permit the return of such seaman, the Attorney General may cause such seaman to be detained on board such vessel or at such other place as he may designate pending the departure of such vessel from the United States, if security is furnished by the master of such vessel in such sum and under such conditions as the Attorney General shall prescribe for the faithful performance by the master of such vessel of the obligations imposed upon him by this section. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Secretary of Labor may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or any part thereof.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the customs manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily on the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such seaman.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States would cause undue hardship to such seaman by reason of the time required for his replacement, or cause loss to the vessel on which he arrived due to the refusal of foreign authorities to permit the return of such seaman, the Attorney General may cause such seaman to be detained on board such vessel or at such other place as he may designate pending the departure of such vessel from the United States, if security is furnished by the master of such vessel in such sum and under such conditions as the Attorney General shall prescribe for the faithful performance by the master of such vessel of the obligations imposed upon him by this section. Compliance with the provisions of this section may be waived by the Attorney General upon the production of other evidence sufficient to satisfy him that the purposes of this section will be accomplished.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the control and regulation of such aliens while in the United States, and the cost of maintenance and the return of any such alien shall be paid by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived. The list of persons to be examined at the port of arrival is located the mid-portion of the left-hand page. (Form I–418) shall not be returned on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival. "Nonquota" aliens are to be listed on Form I–418 in addition to those subject to the quota.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof any alien shall be responsible for the payment of the head tax imposed by section 2 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 874; 8 U. S. C. 132), and the deportation of such alien from the United States.

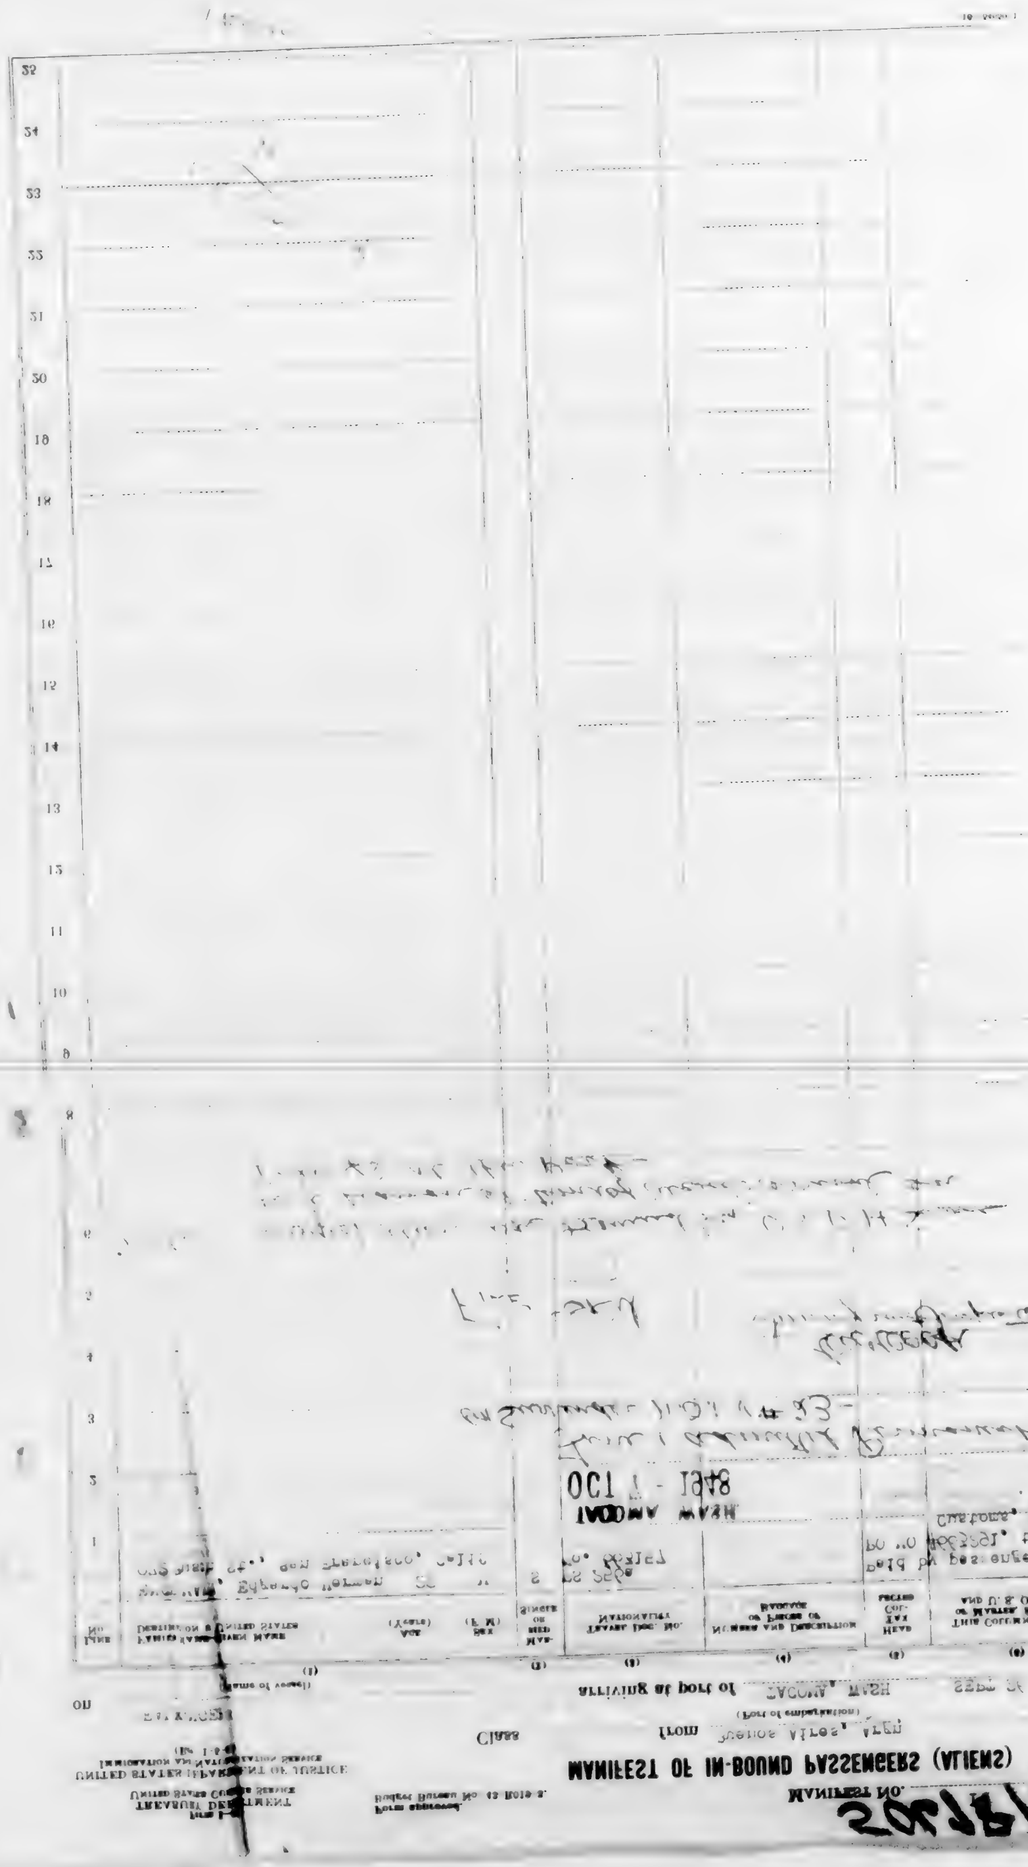
(b) Except as otherwise provided in this section, no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to pay any head tax imposed by section 2 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 874; 8 U. S. C. 132), and any such head tax paid to the collector of customs may be refunded if found not to be due.

(c) Proof shall be filed with the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance until the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or in a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof to the collector of customs.

(d) Proof shall be filed with the collector of customs of the deportation of each alien seaman who has been granted shore leave under the provisions of section 3 of this Act, or who has been permitted to land temporarily for medical treatment, or because of the sickness of such alien seaman, and who shall become a public charge within one year after the date of such deportation, or who shall become a public charge within one year after the date of such deportation from any place outside the United States to which he may be returned, or who shall become a public charge within one year after the date of such deportation from any foreign contiguous territory to which he may be returned, unless it be affirmatively shown that such alien seaman was deported solely because of causes which arose subsequent to the time of such deportation.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, but such action shall not relieve him of the duty to deport such alien seaman at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived at the time of such deportation.

(f) Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this section or with any regulations made thereunder, or who shall refuse or neglect to detain any alien seaman on board his vessel when ordered by an immigration officer, or who shall refuse or neglect to deliver any such alien seaman to the custody of the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, or who shall refuse or neglect to pay the head tax imposed by this section, or who shall refuse or neglect to pay the cost of maintenance and return of any such alien seaman, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense.



(g) The Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, may prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the enforcement of this section.

SEC. 32. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof any alien shall be responsible for the payment of the head tax imposed by section 2 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 874; 8 U. S. C. 132), and the deportation of such alien from the United States. (39 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof any alien seaman employed on board such vessel shall, before the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, deposit with him a sum sufficient to pay the cost of maintenance and return to the place from which he was brought of each such alien seaman (which maintenance shall include a personal physical examination by the medical officers of the Public Health Service), and in addition thereto the sum of $30 for each such alien seaman, unless a bond with sufficient surety in such amount as may be required by the Attorney General is deposited to guarantee the payment of such cost of maintenance and return. Such deposit shall be refunded or such bond canceled upon the departure of such alien seaman from the United States, upon certification by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization that such alien seaman has been lawfully admitted for permanent residence, or upon the production of a certificate from a consular officer of the United States in the country to which such alien seaman is returned that such alien seaman has been landed in such country. Such deposit shall be refunded or such bond canceled upon the production of a certificate from a consular officer of the United States in the country to which such alien seaman is returned that such alien seaman has been landed in such country. Such deposit shall be refunded or such bond canceled upon the production of a certificate from a consular officer of the United States in the country to which such alien seaman is returned that such alien seaman has been landed in such country.

(b) Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this section or with any regulations made thereunder, or who shall refuse or neglect to detain any alien seaman on board his vessel when ordered by an immigration officer, or who shall refuse or neglect to deliver any such alien seaman to the custody of the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, or who shall refuse or neglect to pay the head tax imposed by this section, or who shall refuse or neglect to pay the cost of maintenance and return of any such alien seaman, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense. Any person who knowingly makes a false statement in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance until the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or in a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof to the collector of customs.

(d) Proof shall be filed with the collector of customs of the deportation of each alien seaman who has been granted shore leave under the provisions of section 3 of this Act, or who has been permitted to land temporarily for medical treatment, or because of the sickness of such alien seaman, and who shall become a public charge within one year after the date of such deportation, or who shall become a public charge within one year after the date of such deportation from any foreign contiguous territory to which he may be returned, or who shall become a public charge within one year after the date of such deportation from any place outside thereof, or from the United States to which he may be returned by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived, but such action shall not relieve the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived at the time of such deportation of the duty to deport such alien seaman at the expense

SEC. 18. No alien seaman entitled from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or intransit to such destination as the Secretary of Labor may designate: Provided, That any such alien seaman may be required to deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival such sum of money, not exceeding $50, as in the judgment of such officer will be sufficient to defray the expenses of such alien seaman while in the United States and the cost of his passage to the port of foreign departure, or to the port at which he was originally shipped, or to a port in the country of which he is a subject or citizen, or to a port in any country which may be designated by such alien seaman and which will accept him: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the requirement of such deposit in the case of any alien seaman who is in possession of a round-trip ticket or who is not destitute or likely to become a public charge: Provided further, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, require any such alien seaman to furnish a bond in such amount and with such sureties as he may deem necessary to insure that such alien seaman will depart from the United States in accordance with the provisions of this section.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof (except from foreign contiguous territory) any alien who is destined to or who intends after entering the United States to reside permanently therein, or who is destined to or who intends after entering the United States to proceed to any place in the United States other than a port of entry at which such vessel is entitled to discharge alien passengers, or who is destined to or who intends after entering the United States to proceed to any place in the United States other than the place at which he first lands after inspection by the immigration officers, or who is destined to or who intends after entering the United States to proceed to any place in the United States other than the place at which he first lands after inspection by the immigration officers, shall report the presence on board such vessel of such alien, his name, nationality, race, last permanent residence, final destination, whether in transit through the United States or not, whether in possession of an unrevoked permit to enter some foreign country, whether in possession of the head tax certificate prescribed in section 2 hereof, and such other facts about such alien as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, and shall deliver to the immigration officers at the port of first arrival lists containing the names of all such aliens and full information concerning each such alien required by the Secretary of Labor. Such lists shall be delivered before the vessel shall be granted clearance papers, and any master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or person acting in any such capacity who shall refuse or fail to deliver such lists, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver to any officer of the United States authorized to board such vessel for the purpose of inspecting the same any such list which is in his possession or control, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such information is required but not furnished, or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the provisions of this subdivision in respect of any vessel which shall touch at ports of the United States solely for the purpose of taking on board fuel, supplies, or sick or injured members of the crew, or for the purpose of replacing members of the crew, and which shall not land passengers at any such port.

(b) Every alien arriving at a port within the United States who is destined to a country other than the United States, and every alien departing from the United States, shall be subject to such detention and examination by the immigration officers of the United States at the port of arrival or departure or at any other place designated by the Secretary of Labor, as may be necessary to establish the facts concerning the admissibility of such alien to the United States or concerning the right of such alien to depart from the United States, and for the purpose of such detention and examination the Secretary of Labor may require any such alien to be taken to a station maintained by the United States at such port or place: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, authorize the detention of such alien at any other place under such supervision as he may prescribe.

(c) If the Attorney General shall not have received from the master, or other person in charge of any vessel or aircraft, a list or manifest of the persons on board such vessel or aircraft, or such list or manifest shall not be sufficiently complete to enable the immigration officers at the port of arrival to ascertain whether all persons on board have been duly inspected by the immigration officers, the Attorney General may require the master, or other person in charge of such vessel or aircraft, to prepare and deliver to the immigration officers at such port a list or manifest containing such additional information in respect to the persons on board such vessel or aircraft as the Attorney General may prescribe.

(d) Every alien arriving at a port within the United States who is destined to a country, until he shall have been admitted by the United States, shall be deemed for the purpose of exclusion and deportation to be detained under the immigration laws of the United States, and no such alien shall be admitted to the United States unless he establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that he is not subject to detention and deportation as an alien who has entered the United States in violation of law, and every such alien may be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States in violation of law.

(e) If the Attorney General shall have established by the immigration officers at the various ports of entry of the United States a practice of inspecting aliens departing from the United States, and if such practice shall be uniform, adequate, and simultaneous at all such ports of entry, then clearance papers shall not be granted by the collector of customs to any vessel or aircraft departing to a foreign country from any such port of entry unless and until the master or person in charge of such vessel or aircraft shall have delivered to the immigration officers at such port of entry a list or manifest of all persons on board such vessel or aircraft, which list or manifest shall be in such form and contain such information as the Attorney General may by regulations prescribe, and shall have subscribed to such list or manifest a declaration before an immigration officer at such port of entry that to the best of his knowledge and belief the list or manifest is complete and includes all persons on board such vessel or aircraft who are destined to a country other than the United States: Provided, That the master or person in charge of any vessel or aircraft may, in lieu of delivering such list or manifest, deliver to the immigration officers at the port of entry a separate list or manifest with respect to any class of persons on board such vessel or aircraft destined to a country other than the United States, and such separate list or manifest shall be subscribed to in the manner and form and subject to the conditions prescribed in this subdivision with respect to the list or manifest of persons destined to a country other than the United States.

(f) Every alien departing from the United States shall be subject to such detention and examination by the immigration officers of the United States at the port of departure or at any other place designated by the Secretary of Labor, as may be necessary to establish the facts concerning the admissibility of such alien to the United States or concerning the right of such alien to depart from the United States, and for the purpose of such detention and examination the Secretary of Labor may require any such alien to be taken to a station maintained by the United States at such port or place: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, authorize the detention of such alien at any other place under such supervision as he may prescribe.

(g) If the Attorney General shall have established by the immigration officers at the various ports of entry of the United States a practice of inspecting aliens departing from the United States, and if such practice shall be uniform, adequate, and simultaneous at all such ports of entry, then clearance papers shall not be granted by the collector of customs to any vessel or aircraft departing to a foreign country from any such port of entry unless and until the master or person in charge of such vessel or aircraft shall have delivered to the immigration officers at such port of entry a list or manifest of all persons on board such vessel or aircraft, which list or manifest shall be in such form and contain such information as the Attorney General may by regulations prescribe, and shall have subscribed to such list or manifest a declaration before an immigration officer at such port of entry that to the best of his knowledge and belief the list or manifest is complete and includes all persons on board such vessel or aircraft who are destined to a country other than the United States: Provided, That the master or person in charge of any vessel or aircraft may, in lieu of delivering such list or manifest, deliver to the immigration officers at the port of entry a separate list or manifest with respect to any class of persons on board such vessel or aircraft destined to a country other than the United States, and such separate list or manifest shall be subscribed to in the manner and form and subject to the conditions prescribed in this subdivision with respect to the list or manifest of persons destined to a country other than the United States.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at the United States or coming to any territory under the jurisdiction thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or quarantine, or except in case of the substitution of such alien upon the same vessel or another vessel by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or authorized representative of the vessel, or except in case of distress or shipwreck, or except in case such alien seaman is a bona fide member of the crew of a vessel regularly engaged in the trade between the United States and foreign countries, and such vessel is scheduled to depart from a port of the United States within a period of seventy-two hours: Provided, That any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States may be required to remain under the control of the immigration officer in charge of such port until the departure of such vessel from such port, and any such alien seaman who fails to depart on such vessel may be required by such immigration officer to depart on any other vessel upon which there is space available, and which is scheduled to depart from such port, and such alien seaman may be taken to the vessel on which he is required to depart by any immigration officer, and the cost of his maintenance while under the control of such immigration officer and his passage money shall be paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of any vessel who refuses to take on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel and ordered by such immigration officer to depart on such vessel, or who refuses to pay the passage money of such alien seaman, shall pay a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect to whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to pay any penalty or any part thereof imposed by this section, or while any such penalty remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such sum as the collector of customs may require or the filing of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, conditioned upon the payment of such penalty as may be finally determined upon by the Secretary of Labor. Clearance may also be granted upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover any penalty which may be incurred hereunder by any such vessel before the departure of the vessel from the port, or the filing of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof. Clearance may be granted in the discretion of the collector of customs in the case of any vessel which has been libeled for the recovery of any penalty incurred hereunder, upon the deposit with the court in which such libel is pending of a sum sufficient to cover the amount claimed in such libel and costs, or upon the filing of a bond with sufficient surety conditioned upon the payment of such sum as may be finally decreed against such vessel in such proceeding.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on a substitute vessel as provided in subdivision (a) of this section, or who shall depart on any vessel without the permission of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge thereof, or who shall refuse to depart on any vessel when ordered to do so by the immigration officer in charge of the port, or who shall refuse to proceed on board the vessel designated for his departure or any vessel substituted therefor, or who shall secrete himself on board any vessel or in any place in the United States with intent to evade his departure or the departure of any other alien seaman on any such vessel, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that adequate provision has been made for the detention in the United States of any alien seaman who is required by this section to remain in the United States, he may, in his discretion, permit the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived to deposit with the Attorney General such sum of money as the Attorney General may deem sufficient to cover the cost of maintenance of such alien seaman for a period not exceeding five months, pending the completion of any judicial proceeding relative to his status, and such sum may be remitted to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of the vessel upon the departure of such alien seaman on a vessel of which he is master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge, or upon the deportation of such alien seaman, or upon the payment of a tax imposed by law upon such alien seaman, whichever shall first occur. Any such sum may be remitted to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of the vessel on which such alien seaman shall depart, or to such person as he may designate in writing, upon the departure of such alien seaman on any vessel, or may be remitted to such alien seaman.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not depart on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on a substitute vessel as provided in subdivision (a) of this section, or who shall depart on any vessel without the permission of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge thereof, or who shall refuse to depart on any vessel when ordered to do so by the immigration officer in charge of the port, or who shall refuse to proceed on board the vessel designated for his departure or any vessel substituted therefor, or who shall secrete himself on board any vessel or in any place in the United States with intent to evade his departure or the departure of any other alien seaman on any such vessel, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that adequate provision has been made for the detention in the United States of any alien seaman who is required by this section to remain in the United States, he may, in his discretion, permit the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived to deposit with the Attorney General such sum of money as the Attorney General may deem sufficient to cover the cost of maintenance of such alien seaman for a period not exceeding five months, pending the completion of any judicial proceeding relative to his status, and such sum may be remitted to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of the vessel upon the departure of such alien seaman on a vessel of which he is master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge, or upon the deportation of such alien seaman, or upon the payment of a tax imposed by law upon such alien seaman, whichever shall first occur. Any such sum may be remitted to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of the vessel on which such alien seaman shall depart, or to such person as he may designate in writing, upon the departure of such alien seaman on any vessel, or may be remitted to such alien seaman.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall cause all alien seamen employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seamen (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seamen on board any vessel after notice that such inspection or to deport such seamen if required by such immigration officer to the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers during the detention of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper.

(b) Every fine as aforesaid, or part of any such fine, remaining unpaid after the time therein limited, may be sued for and recovered by the United States in the district court of the district in which the port is situated, or in any other district into which the master or owner of such vessel may go or be found. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel the master or owner of which shall refuse to pay any such fine imposed upon him as aforesaid.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seamen he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be charged elsewhere than upon such vessel as a penalty. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to relieve any vessel from the payment of the fine imposed by section 16 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164–167; 8 U. S. C. 167 (a), 167 (c).)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board the vessel arriving in the United States from which he seeks to be excluded, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such emergency as may prevent the vessel on which he arrived from departing before the expiration of such period as may be specified by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, but any such alien seaman who has been granted temporary permission to land shall, at the expiration of the period so specified, or when required by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, or at any time prior thereto if ordered by the Commissioner-General of Immigration, the Assistant Commissioner-General of Immigration, or any inspector in charge, be deported in the manner provided in section 19 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 155), upon the certificate of the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service that in his opinion the alien is suffering from a contagious disease which endangers the public health: Provided, That no alien seaman shall be permitted to land temporarily under this section if the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has reason to believe that such alien seaman belongs to any of the classes of aliens who are ineligible to citizenship, unless such seaman is in possession of a valid passport viséed by the consular officer having charge of the port at which such seaman intends to land, or by the diplomatic representative of the country to which such seaman belongs, and unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that such seaman intends to depart from the United States within the period for which he is granted permission to land.

SEC. 30. (a) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel entering in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to deposit on board such vessel before departure therefrom, and keep posted in a conspicuous place until inspected, a notice, in such form as the Commissioner-General of Immigration may prescribe, stating that each alien seaman employed on such vessel must be inspected by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, or at any other port designated by the Commissioner-General of Immigration, before such alien seaman will be permitted to land temporarily or permanently in the United States, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers by the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located (or, if there is no collector at such port, then by any customs officer designated by the Commissioner of Customs) if the master of such vessel refuses or neglects to comply with the requirements of this section. Clearance may be granted notwithstanding the provisions of this section upon the production of a certificate from a consular officer that the requirements of this section have been complied with.

(b) Every alien seaman shall not, without such consular certificate, be permitted to enter the United States unless he is in possession of a valid passport viséed by the consular officer having charge of the port at which such seaman intends to land, or by the diplomatic representative of the country to which such seaman belongs, and unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that such seaman intends to depart from the United States within the period for which he is granted permission to land.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation at the expense of the owner of any vessel on which any alien arrived in the United States will be prejudicial to the interests of the United States, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien to depart from the United States on board such vessel, notwithstanding the immigration laws, and such alien shall not be entitled to a hearing before a special inquiry officer. The Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the application of this subsection in the case of any vessel which is regularly and frequently scheduled to touch at ports both in the United States and in foreign contiguous territory.

(d) Every alien seaman shall not, without such consular certificate, be permitted to enter the United States unless he is in possession of a valid passport viséed by the consular officer having charge of the port at which such seaman intends to land, or by the diplomatic representative of the country to which such seaman belongs, and unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that such seaman intends to depart from the United States within the period for which he is granted permission to land.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation at the expense of the owner of any vessel on which any alien arrived in the United States will be prejudicial to the interests of the United States, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien to depart from the United States on board such vessel, notwithstanding the provisions of this section. Every alien seaman who shall depart from the United States during the period for which he was granted permission to land shall be deported as an alien who entered the United States without inspection, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that his departure was due to circumstances which could not have been foreseen by him at the time he was granted permission to land.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman employed upon any vessel arriving at a port of the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to secure medical treatment, or hospitalization as such alien seaman as the Commissioner General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 206.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel shall furnish to the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry a complete list of all aliens (whether passengers or members of the crew) employed on board such vessel, and such list shall include such additional information relative to such aliens as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Such list shall be prepared at such time before the departure of the vessel from the last port outside the United States as the Commissioner General of Immigration may prescribe, and shall be subject to such further verification before departure from the United States as the Commissioner General of Immigration may prescribe. Such list shall be delivered to the immigration officer at the port of departure before the departure of the vessel from such port, unless a different time or place is prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, in which case it shall be delivered in accordance with such prescription. Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel failing to prepare or deliver any list required by this section, or to include therein the required information concerning any alien employed on board such vessel, or making any false statement in any such list concerning any such alien, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such false statement is made, or in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such penalty or the giving of a bond with sufficient surety therefor, in a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such false statement is made, or in respect of whom such failure occurs, as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty or the giving of such bond.

(b) Every alien in any alien seaman shall, when ordered by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, be deported in the same manner as provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully. Such deportation shall be made to the country in which such alien seaman was born or to the country in which he had his last residence prior to entering the United States, unless such alien seaman shall, at the option of the owner of the vessel on which he arrived, be required to pay the cost of his transportation to such country, or shall have procured a bond approved by the Secretary of Labor in such sum not exceeding $300 as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, to indemnify the United States against any expense for the maintenance or transportation of such alien seaman. Such deportation shall be at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws. Any such alien seaman who shall enter the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully.

(c) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States during the period his vessel is in port, and who remains in the United States after the departure of the vessel on which he arrived, shall be deported as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully.

(d) If any alien seaman shall not depart with the vessel on which he arrived, or on some other vessel within the period fixed by the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry, or within such further period as may be allowed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, he shall be deported as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully.

(e) If any alien seaman shall be found in the United States in violation of this section, he shall be deported as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully.

(f) It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation, or the agent of any person, firm, or corporation, to bring to the United States any alien seaman who is afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects described in section 2 of this Act, except that such alien seaman may be brought to the United States for treatment, and except that the Commissioner General of Immigration may permit any alien seaman to enter the United States temporarily under bond, in such sum and with such conditions as he may prescribe, for the proper care and treatment of such alien seaman. Any person, firm, or corporation, or the agent of any person, firm, or corporation, violating the provisions of this subdivision shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each and every violation.

(g) Any alien seaman who shall come to the United States in violation of this section, or who shall remain in the United States for a longer time than permitted under this section, shall be deported as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully.

(h) Any master, agent, owner, or consignee who shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this section, or any rule or regulation made by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, governing the admission of alien seamen, shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each and every violation.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention in the United States for the ultimate determination of his deportation or his departure on a vessel or aircraft other than that on which he arrived. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 168.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel other than a vessel employed on the Great Lakes or the waters tributary thereto arriving at any port of the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be responsible for and pay the cost of maintenance of any alien seaman employed on board such vessel pending the final determination of his case, and in addition shall pay a tax of $10 for each alien seaman so employed for each day he remains in the United States after the expiration of the period of twenty days after the seaman is granted a permit to go ashore, or after the vessel has been granted clearance, whichever occurs first: Provided, That the Attorney General may, upon the recommendation of the immigrant inspector in charge at the port, extend the period of twenty days during which such tax shall not be collected for a further period not to exceed ten days in the case of any seaman who is ill and who, in the opinion of the Attorney General, may be able to proceed to his destination within such further period. The Attorney General may, upon the recommendation of the immigrant inspector in charge at the port, remit the tax in the case of any seaman who has been in the United States for a period of not more than five years and who has been lawfully admitted for permanent residence therein, if it appears to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that the seaman has remained in the United States solely because of illness of such seaman originating subsequent to his last arrival in the United States. The decision of the Attorney General shall be final as to the remission of such tax. Payment of such tax may be enforced by any of the remedies provided by law for the collection of duties imposed by the tariff laws or by withholding clearance papers from the vessel on which such seaman arrived or departed, or both.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel arriving therein, or who shall depart therefrom, shall be given a certificate by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, stating the name of such seaman, the amount of tax paid by him, the number of days he remained in the United States, and the number of days for which the tax was paid. Such certificate shall be given up by such seaman upon his departure from the United States to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port, or to any person designated by him for the purpose, and shall be delivered by such inspector or person to the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which such seaman departs. Such certificate shall be prima facie evidence of the payment of the tax by such seaman.

(c) The Attorney General shall have the power to prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of this section, including the form and manner of the giving of bonds or other security, and the production of certificates by seamen. (43 Stat. 164–166; 8 U. S. C. 168 (a)–(c))

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector, possible the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of changes of alien members of crews (Form I–418) shall not be furnished on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an alternate vessel is to be substituted, a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection, alien members should be assembled in a "workmen's" section of the vessel.

Alien members of crews may be required to present passports and visas. Every alien seaman who is a native citizen of a foreign nation or dependency should be in possession of a certificate of identity issued by the country of which he claims to be a citizen or subject. Such certificate should show the bearer's full name, date and place of birth, personal description, and present nationality. It should also bear a photograph of the bearer and the official seal of the issuing authority. Every alien seaman should have in his possession a valid passport or other travel document showing his nationality and identity, and a valid visa, if required by the country to which he is destined. Aliens who are not in possession of the documents required by the immediately foregoing paragraph may be permitted to enter the United States temporarily in the discretion of the immigration officer at the port of arrival, but such aliens will be required to obtain the documents required by the country to which they are destined before they will be permitted to depart from the United States. Such aliens will be required to depart from the United States on the vessel on which they arrived, or on another vessel, within the period of time fixed by the immigration officer at the time of their admission, unless they shall have obtained the documents required by the country to which they are destined and have been granted an extension of time within which to depart from the United States by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel to deliver to the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, at the time of making final entry, a correct list, certified to under oath by the master, agent, consignee, or owner, in such form as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, containing the name, age, sex, calling, nationality, last permanent residence, and final destination of all aliens, including those in transit through the United States, who are on board such vessel, whether they have been admitted to the United States or not, and such additional information relative to such aliens as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and the refusal to furnish such list, or the furnishing of a false list, or the failure to furnish information in connection therewith, or the refusal of any master, agent, consignee, or owner to deliver to any such inspector a passenger list or any other document pertaining to any such alien when demanded, or the failure to deliver any such document, or the refusal to permit any such inspector to enter the vessel for the purpose of inspecting the same and the certificates, documents, and papers of the crew and passengers, or any of them, or the refusal to answer any question put to him by any such inspector touching any matter or thing concerning the right of any such alien to enter the United States, or the making of any false answer to any such question, shall be unlawful, and any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel guilty of any such refusal, failure, or neglect shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, may, in his discretion, waive the application of this section to masters, agents, consignees, or owners of vessels touching at ports on the borders of the United States solely for the purpose of taking on board pilots.

C. 137), have been complied with, or the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel has been notified by the administrative authority that prescribed by said section or to that prescribed by section 36 of said Act (39 Stat. 886; 8 U. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or unless such alien from the Uniform regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alternate deportation, removal, or detention of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be required to pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of entry is located the sum of $8.00 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or while the sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such sum with the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in the discretion shall think proper.

The section, as amended, shall apply to all vessels arriving subsequent to June 2, 1924.

(b) Every alien seaman who did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall not be granted by the master a permit to land in the United States, shall be taken before a special inquiry officer, and shall not be permitted to land temporarily or permanently in the United States unless specifically admissible under the immigration laws, or unless the Attorney General, in his discretion, shall grant him permission to land temporarily under such conditions as he may prescribe.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such alien, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of a vessel in the United States from a foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, master, commander, or consignee of the vessel to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively engaged, the nationality, last permanent residence, and destination of each alien, together with such information likely to lead to his apprehension; and it shall be the duty of the master to deliver to such immigration officer, in addition to the lists of aliens employed, lists containing the names of all aliens employees who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who illegally landed from the vessel. Before a description of each alien, together with such information likely to lead to his apprehension; and it shall be the duty of each alien passenger, courier, or member of the crew to report to the immigrant inspector at the time of the vessel's arrival at the port of debarkation, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired to replace those debarred or who left the vessel for any cause at the time of port debarkation; and no such vessel shall be granted clearance papers by the collector of customs or other officer authorized to grant clearance papers until the master has delivered to the immigrant inspector the lists required by this section, and has certified to the correctness of the same by his oath of office indorsed thereon, and has obtained from the immigrant inspector a certificate that the provisions of this section have been complied with. Masters of vessels who refuse or fail to deliver such lists, or who knowingly make false statements in relation thereto, shall be severally liable to a penalty of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered, to be paid to the collector of customs of the district at which the vessel shall first arrive after the departure of such alien; and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty or pending the production of such correct lists as may be required: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to the extent and for the purpose of receiving medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (except an alien seaman who has been granted shore leave under the provisions of section 13 of this Act) shall be severally liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman (except as provided in subdivision (c) of this section) employed on board who fails to remain with the vessel or to land in the United States when required so to do, or who fails to deliver such alien seaman on board such vessel when she departs from a port of the United States, unless such master, owner, agent, charterer, or consignee establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that the inability to deliver such alien seaman was occasioned by his death, illness, or injury necessitating his hospitalization, or that such alien seaman was left behind in a foreign port because he had been lawfully detained by the authorities of such port, or that such alien seaman was otherwise prevented from departing with the vessel through no fault or neglect of the master, owner, agent, charterer, or consignee. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any such penalty to any such master, owner, agent, charterer, or consignee, or may cancel any bond given to the Attorney General to secure the payment thereof, in such amount as he may deem meritorious, not exceeding in any case the sum of $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such bond was given, and not exceeding in any case a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond fairly equivalent to the amount of such fine, or allow the fine to be remitted or bond canceled upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine. (39 Stat. 888–889; 8 U. S. C. 171.)

(b) Every alien seaman shall be examined by the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival before he shall be admitted, and every such alien seaman who shall not produce a valid seaman's passport and a permit, shall be issued a special permit to enter the United States from any place outside thereof, to the extent and for the period of time necessary to enable him to proceed to his destination, which period of time shall not exceed 29 days. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, and upon receipt by the collector of customs of a bond, in such amount, not exceeding $500 for each seaman in respect of whom such bond is given, as he may deem sufficient, conditioned for the return of such alien seaman to a foreign port, or for the payment of the penalty provided for in subdivision (a) of this section, grant to such alien seaman a permit to enter the United States from any place outside thereof, for such period of time as he may deem necessary for the performance of his usual duties upon the vessel on which he arrived, or for such period of time as the master, owner, agent, charterer, or consignee of such vessel may be required to detain him on board pursuant to regulations prescribed by the Attorney General, and may, upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover the passage of such alien seaman to a foreign port, or upon the production of a passport and such other documents as may be required by the immigration laws and regulations in force at the time, issue to such alien seaman a permit to depart from the United States. Any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States within the period of time specified in the permit granted him by the Attorney General, or within such further time as may be granted him by the Attorney General, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States. Any such alien seaman who departs from the United States on a vessel other than the vessel on which he arrived, or who departs from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived without having been granted a permit to depart, shall be deemed to have departed without having been granted shore leave, and the penalty provided for in subdivision (a) of this section shall be applicable.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, or on which he is entitled to be transported to a foreign country, would cause undue hardship, or that such seaman is a bona fide resident seaman employed on such vessel, desiring to remain in the United States to continue such employment, and that the vacancy which he will fill cannot be filled by the employment of a citizen of the United States, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien seaman to enter the United States for such time and under such conditions as he may prescribe, without the payment of the penalty provided for in subdivision (a) of this section, or the deposit of any bond or money with respect to such alien seaman. (39 Stat. 889–890; 8 U. S. C. 174.)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily and solely for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or because of illness, or for such other reasons as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alternate deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, who fails to deport an alien on board on which such alien arrived, upon the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), to or who fails to detain such seaman on board such vessel until such inspection or to deport such seaman shall be determined by the immigration officer to be entitled to enter the United States, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be cleared pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond with sureties satisfactory to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or any part thereof. Such application shall first be referred to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization for investigation and recommendation. The Attorney General may, upon such application, remit such penalty or any part thereof if it shall be established to his satisfaction that the vessel on which the alien seaman arrived in the United States has been continuously employed in the service of the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel from the time of the arrival of such alien seaman on board such vessel until the departure of such vessel from the United States, and that due diligence has been exercised by such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel to prevent the desertion of such alien seaman, and that such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel has no reason to believe or suspect that such alien seaman intended to remain permanently in the United States.

(b) Every alien seaman shall, at the time of his departure from the United States, deliver to the master of the vessel on which he arrives in the United States a certificate from the immigration officer at the port of entry stating the date of his entry into the United States, the vessel on which he arrived, and the length of time he is permitted to remain in the United States. Every alien seaman who fails to deliver such certificate to the master of the vessel on which he departs from the United States, and every master who fails to collect such certificate from any alien seaman who departs on his vessel, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 for each offense.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 160.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States. Every alien landed in the United States from any vessel shall be inspected by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), unless such inspection is waived by the Secretary of Labor in favor of any such alien. Any alien who has been certified by the medical examiners to be afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease shall, if found to be such, be detained on board or at quarantine until he is certified by the medical examiners to be no longer such, and then be treated as provided in the case of other aliens certified by the medical examiners to be afflicted with such disease. Any alien who is certified by the medical examiners to be afflicted with any such disease other than one of a loathsome or dangerous contagious character shall be detained on board or at quarantine or other place designated by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival pending the decision of the Secretary of Labor as to whether he shall be permitted to land, and if he is not permitted to land he shall be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States. Any alien certified by the medical examiners to be afflicted with tuberculosis in any form or with a mental disease or defect which would make it likely that he would become a public charge may be temporarily admitted to the United States by the Secretary of Labor, under such conditions as he may prescribe, for medical treatment, for humane reasons, or in the interest of any State, but in no case shall any such alien be admitted to the United States for permanent residence unless he shall at all times after entry have the means of maintaining himself in the United States, or unless he has a guaranty from a responsible person or society approved by the Secretary of Labor that he will not become a public charge. Any alien who shall have been excluded from admission to the United States and shall have been deported shall, if again seeking admission to the United States, be regarded as seeking an original admission to the United States. Any alien who shall enter the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States. Any alien who shall be deported under the provisions of this section shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this section unless the Secretary of Labor shall deem it to be contrary to the interests of the United States to defray the expense of such deportation.

(b) Proof shall be on alien seaman who has been certified by the immigration officer in charge at any seaport as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to maintain such alien seaman's status as a bona fide resident seaman. Any alien who shall fail to maintain his status as a bona fide resident seaman shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that sufficient guaranties or security for any alien seaman who has been certified by the immigration officer in charge at any seaport as afflicted with tuberculosis in any form or with a mental disease or defect which would make it likely that he would become a public charge have been furnished by the owner, agent, consignee, master, or charterer of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived, such alien seaman may be permitted to land temporarily under bond in such sum and with such security and conditions as the Attorney General shall prescribe, to insure that such alien seaman will not become a public charge and will be deported when required by the Attorney General. Such bond may be canceled and surrendered whenever the Attorney General is satisfied that such alien seaman has departed from the United States or has been naturalized. (43 Stat. 164–165, as amended; 8 U. S. C. 160 (a), 160 (c).)

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port at a place if shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, showing the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, what nations they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be held on and discharged in the port of arrival; lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, showing the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, what nations they were respectively a part of, what intended length of stay such alien employee may have in the United States, and whether he intends to become a citizen thereof; and lists containing the names of all aliens employees who were not included in any list delivered prior to the departure of the vessel from the last foreign port or place, and specifying the additions, if any, to the information required to be furnished in the lists of such employees at the time of the arrival but who were not then on board the vessel, and the reasons for the omission of such names from the lists. Such lists shall be prepared in quadruplicate, and delivered to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival before the passengers are landed therefrom, and shall be produced on demand for the inspection of any immigrant inspector. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or master of any such vessel who refuses to deliver to the principal immigration officer, or to any immigrant inspector, any list required by this section, or who refuses to answer any question touching the information required by this section, or who answers any such question falsely, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each offense, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or master of any such vessel who refuses to deliver to any immigrant inspector any person specified in any list required by this section, or who refuses to detain any such person on board or at such port of arrival when required so to do by the principal immigration officer at the port, or who refuses to assist in the search of the vessel, or in the detention on board thereof of any such person when required so to do by any such immigrant inspector, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom any such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such amount as may be required by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit the same upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just, and shall ascertain the fees and expenses to be paid witnesses attending to secure the payment thereof, which shall be certified to the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, in his discretion, employ counsel in the prosecution of any such case. (39 Stat. 884; 8 U. S. C. 152.)

SEC. 37. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, and bringing any alien seaman employed on board such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall have inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain on board such vessel such seaman pending such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer to the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district at which such arrival occurs a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid, unless the vessel is sold to pay such fine. (39 Stat. 884; 8 U. S. C. 151.)

(b) Every alien seaman who deserts while the vessel is in port shall be detained on board or at such port until final disposition of his case. Any master who fails to detain any seaman who deserts, unless such seaman has been granted permission to land by the immigration officer in charge of the port, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which such port is located the sum of $300 for each seaman so deserting. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any such penalty or any part thereof if he is satisfied that due diligence has been exercised to prevent the desertion of such seaman, or that such seaman was not a deserter from the vessel on which he arrived, or that the vessel on which he arrived sailed from a port so near the boundary of the United States that there was not sufficient time to secure the services of a substitute, or that the vessel was detained in port after the departure scheduled by the master for such vessel for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this section, or that such other circumstances exist as may be deemed sufficient by the Attorney General. (39 Stat. 884; 8 U. S. C. 153.)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States is necessary to secure the presence of such seaman as a witness, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deposit or return such seaman pursuant to the immigration officer of the Attorney General.

(d) Every alien seaman who does not depart from the United States upon the discharge of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or who shall be found in the United States in violation of this section, shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States. Deportation of such alien seamen shall be a charge against the appropriation for the expenses of the Bureau of Immigration. (39 Stat. 884–885, as amended by sec. 19, 43 Stat. 162; 8 U. S. C. 153 (a), (b), (c).)

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, or who has been employed on board any vessel during its last trip to the United States, or who has been refused a permit to land by the United States Commissioner of Immigration, or who has been granted a permit to land solely in pursuance of regulations as to the Alienage General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has been employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, until he be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness which may develop during the period the vessel is in port, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, who employs on board such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seamen (which inspection shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or the Attorney General so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, when such failure is the direction shall finally prove. The section, as amended, shall apply to all barrelled steamships engaged in the trade between the United States and the Panama Canal Zone.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the articles mentioned in the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily by the master of such vessel or as a passenger, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to declare or depart after readjustment by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens embraced on board such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be landed and discharged in the port of arrival; to state correctly and truthfully as to each alien so much of such information as may be required by the Central Bureau of the Immigration Service, relating to the admissibility of such alien, together with such information likely to lead to the apprehension and illegally brought from the vessel. Giving a description of such alien, information likely to lead to his apprehension; and to produce and deliver to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has secreted himself on board such vessel, and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all aliens employed on any part of the vessel at the time of the arrival but who have been discharged, and the name of the vessel from which discharged, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired to fill vacancies at the time of the departure, and the names of those who have secreted themselves on board, and the reasons therefor, so far as known, and shall make oath to the truth of such lists and of the additions thereto before any immigrant inspector or other officer authorized to administer oaths for immigration purposes. It shall be the duty of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel bringing any alien to the United States from foreign territory to cause such alien to be detained on board such vessel or at such place on the dock at which the vessel may land as the immigrant inspector in charge may direct, until a physical examination of such alien can be made by the medical officer detailed for that purpose, and no such alien shall be allowed to land in the United States except upon certificate from such immigrant inspector that such physical examination has been made and that such alien has complied with all the requirements of law. Any such alien who shall land in the United States before such certificate is given shall be deported as provided by section 19 of this Act. Any person who shall bring to the United States any alien not duly certified by the proper immigrant inspector shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien so brought, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each alien so brought, where it appears that the person bringing such alien did not know and had no reasonable grounds to believe that such alien was an alien, and that before such alien was brought to the United States he had instituted such measures and exercised such care to prevent the same as would ordinarily be instituted and exercised by a prudent man. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit the head tax provided for by section 2 of this Act in the case of any alien who is in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa and who is otherwise admissible, but who arrives at a port of the United States without sufficient funds to pay such tax, if the consul who issued such visa shall certify in writing that such alien was in possession of sufficient funds to pay such tax at the time of the issuance of such visa, and that such alien was otherwise admissible at the time of the issuance of such visa. Any alien who shall enter the United States in violation of this section shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act. (39 Stat. 879; 8 U. S. C. 171.)

(a) Every alien in the United States, including an alien crewman, shall report his address (and every change of address) during the month of January of each year and during the month following the end of the fiscal year (September) in such manner and on such forms as may be prescribed by the Attorney General. The Attorney General may require other reports concerning matters relating to the administration and enforcement of this section and section 241(a)(19) of this Act from any alien in the United States or any alien crewman. Nothing in this section shall relieve any alien from the penalties provided in section 266 of this Act or any other section for failure to report his address within the period or periods stipulated in this section.

(b) Every alien in the United States who has been lawfully admitted to the United States shall, at the time of his departure from the United States, if such departure occurs after such alien has been in the United States for a period of six months or longer, report his address to the Attorney General in such manner as the Attorney General shall prescribe.

(c) Every alien who is required by any law or regulation to register and report his address under subsection (a) or (b) of this section who fails to comply with any such requirement shall be subject to the penalties provided in section 266(b) of this Act unless such alien establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such failure was reasonably excusable or was not willful.

(d) The provisions of this section and of section 241(a)(19) of this Act shall not apply to any alien who is a nonimmigrant described in section 101(a)(15)(A) or 101(a)(15)(G) of this Act, or to any alien under the age of fourteen years. The Attorney General may waive the application of this section or section 241(a)(19) of this Act in the case of any alien if he shall be satisfied that compliance by such alien would be impracticable because of such alien's age, sickness, infirmity, or physical disability, or in the case of any alien if he shall be satisfied that such waiver is in the national interest. (43 Stat. 164–162, as added, 54 Stat. 673, 8 U. S. C. 137 (a), (b), (c), (d).)

The master, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee of any vessel failing to comply with the requirements of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $300 for each alien with respect to whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of any such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, upon application in writing therefor, in such manner and form as the Attorney General may prescribe, and upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any such fine, or may refund any money deposited or paid on account thereof, or cancel any such bond, after the lapse of one year from the date when such alien was required by this section to be reported. This section shall apply to all vessels upon the navigable waters of the United States. This section as amended shall apply to all vessels arriving after the date of enactment of this Act. (d) The provisions of this section and of section 241(a)(19) of this Act shall not apply to any alien who is a nonimmigrant described in section 101(a)(15)(A) or 101(a)(15)(G) of this Act, or to any alien under the age of fourteen years. The Attorney General may waive the application of this section or section 241(a)(19) of this Act in the case of any alien if he shall be satisfied that compliance by such alien would be impracticable because of such alien's age, sickness, infirmity, or physical disability, or in the case of any alien if he shall be satisfied that such waiver is in the national interest. The list of aliens or alien immigrants to be examined at each port of arrival shall not be delivered by the master to the immigration officer at the port, but shall be retained on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an alien entering seaman is a "non-immigrant," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be landed and the ports of which they are severally subjects or citizens; and it shall be the duty of the master of such vessel, before the departure of any such alien employee from the port of arrival, to deliver to the said officer a list containing the names of all such employees who may leave the vessel, stating a description of such alien, together with information likely to lead to his apprehension; and it shall be the duty of the master to report as the cause of any vacancies occurring in the crew, otherwise than by discharge in the port of arrival, the name of any such employee who may desert or attempt to desert, and the circumstances connected therewith, and also the names of any persons who may be found on board who are not known to be members of the crew, and the reasons why they were not reported by the master as stowaways. Any violation of the provisions of this section by the master of any vessel shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each offense, and no clearance shall be granted any vessel while the master thereof is in default in the payment of any fine imposed upon him under the provisions of this section. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each offense, as to him may seem proper. Any fine collected from the master of a vessel by reason of the failure of any alien employee to be reported or listed by the master as required by this section shall be remitted to such master if he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such alien employee was forcibly prevented from leaving the United States or from reporting or listing as required by this section, and that due diligence was exercised by such master to secure the presence of such alien employee and report or list him as required by this section.

(d) Every alien, not an alien seaman who has been admitted to the United States, who shall be found remaining in the United States for a longer time than one month beyond the period fixed by the terms of the admission granted to him or who shall have failed to depart from the United States within one month after the date of the final order of deportation in the case of any alien against whom a warrant of deportation has been issued by the Secretary of Labor under the provisions of this section, unless the failure to depart shall be occasioned by causes beyond the control of the alien and which in the opinion of the Secretary of Labor ought to excuse him, shall be deported as provided in this section. Any alien who shall willfully fail or refuse to depart within a period of one month from the date of the final order of deportation, or who shall conspire to or take any affirmative action to prevent his departure pursuant to such order, shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than two years. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the proper immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival a complete manifest of all persons on board such vessel. It shall be the duty of each such owner, agent, consignee, or master to make oath before such immigration officer to the manifest in quadruplicate, and to subscribe thereto in the port of arrival; to list or cause to be listed all such persons as may be discovered on board after the vessel has left the last foreign port touched at; to report the sickness or death of any person on board during the voyage; and to deliver to the proper officer at each port in the United States at which the vessel may call after her arrival at the first port all such persons as may be destined to such port. Such manifest shall be in such form and contain such information as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, and shall be signed and sworn to before the immigration officer at the port of arrival by the master of the vessel, which oath may be administered by any such officer. Such manifest shall show specifically which of the persons therein listed have been admitted to the United States and which have been detained for further examination or for the decision of the Board of Special Inquiry, and shall indicate whether the persons admitted are citizens of the United States, citizens of the insular possessions of the United States, or aliens entitled to enter the United States solely or free of any condition, limitation, or restriction imposed upon the admission of aliens not specifically mentioned in this Act, and such other information as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. Such manifest shall be prepared in quadruplicate, and the additional copies shall be delivered to the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and one copy shall be delivered by the master to the immigration officer at each subsequent port at which the vessel may call before proceeding to the United States. (43 Stat. 164–165, as amended; 8 U. S. C. 191 (a), 191 (c).)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that any person has been brought to the United States by any alien, company, partnership, or corporation in violation of this section, or that any alien has been allowed to land in the United States in violation of this section, and that such person can be found, he shall cause such person to be returned to the country whence he came, or to the country from which he embarked to such country, or to that in which he resided, at the expense of such alien, company, partnership, or corporation, or any of the officers, agents, owners, charterers, or masters of the vessel on which or by means of which such person was brought to the United States, or allowed to land therein, and such alien shall be deported on the vessel bringing him to the United States, or on any vessel on which he may be found, unless the Attorney General shall determine that such person is not subject to deportation under the immigration laws of the United States, or that he is a citizen of the United States, or that he was lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence and is returning to a residence therein after a temporary absence, or that he entered the United States solely in order to escape persecution on account of race, religion, or political opinion and that he is admissible under the immigration laws (other than those excluding aliens who are coming to the United States solely in order to escape persecution on account of race, religion, or political opinion), or that he was in the United States before the expiration of the time allowed for his voluntary departure, or that he was in the United States at the time of the passage of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 874). Clearance shall not be granted for any vessel until the immigration laws and regulations affecting the departure of aliens have been complied with. Any person who violates any provision of this section, or who knowingly makes any false statement in connection therewith, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien in respect of whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the application of this section to her master or owner, or while any such master or owner is under arrest charged with violation of this section, unless a sufficient bond shall be first given by such master or owner to the United States in the penal sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such violation is charged to have occurred, conditioned for the payment of the penalty which may be imposed for such violation. Clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the question of the application of this section to the master or owner of any vessel upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty with the collector or customs of the customs district in which such vessel may be. Such deposit shall be returned to the master or owner of such vessel if no charge is made against him under this section within ten days after the departure of such vessel from the United States, or if, after such charge is made, the question of the application of this section to him is finally determined favorably to him by the Secretary of Labor or by the courts. (39 Stat. 886; 8 U. S. C. 141.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by such immigration officer or the physician designated by him), or has determined that such seaman is not affected with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities which would be ground for exclusion of such seaman by the immigration laws, and has issued a certificate to that effect, shall not permit any alien seaman employed on any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any place outside thereof, to land from such vessel, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or otherwise of such seaman. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel who violates any provision of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers by the collector of customs in charge of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the inquiry to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, or while any application in writing therefor, made before such payment, is pending before the Attorney General or a board of review, if a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, to be approved by the collector or customs, in a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, in the penal sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, is filed with the collector of customs in the customs district in which the port of arrival is located. The Attorney General is authorized to remit such fine, or any part thereof, upon such terms as he may deem proper. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 167.)

(b) Every alien seaman shall not be permitted to land temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or otherwise of such seaman, unless a sufficient number of members of the crew of such vessel, as determined by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, remain on board to identify such alien seaman. Every alien seaman who is permitted to land temporarily for medical treatment shall be required by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which he arrived to return on board the vessel before it departs from the port, or, if the vessel departs before the return of such seaman, to depart on the vessel on which he arrived or on such other vessel or in such other manner as may be directed by the Attorney General. Every alien seaman who fails to depart on the vessel on which he arrived or on such other vessel or in such other manner as may be directed by the Attorney General, unless such failure is waived by the Attorney General, shall be deported as an alien who entered the United States without inspection at the time of his last entry into the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 168.)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived, or such vessel, is unreasonably delayed, or that such deportation cannot be accomplished by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, the Attorney General may cause such alien seaman to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, or such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, and such expense may be recovered from such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, or from the bail or deposit given for the alien seaman, or from the proceeds of the sale of such bail or deposit, or any part thereof. (43 Stat. 164–165; 8 U. S. C. 169 (b), 169 (c).)

Any alien who has been found upon such examination to be subject to exclusion because not in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa, or other valid entry document required by this Act, and who may be admissible under this Act upon the presentation of such document, may be granted a period of not to exceed four months in which to obtain such document and admission. SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all alien members of the crew employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the grade of the company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be held for the payment of the head tax provided for in section 2 hereof, and such information as the Attorney General shall require for the proper execution of the provisions of this section. The master, agent, consignee, or master of any such vessel is hereby required to report to such immigration officer, at which or prior to which such vessel is to depart from any port in the United States, the additions to or changes in the crew, by reason of death, illness, or otherwise, since the last report was made, and the cause of any such death or illness, and to deliver to the proper officer a list of such additions or changes, which list shall be subject to the same inspection and verification as the original list. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both. The master, agent, consignee, or master of any such vessel shall, before the departure of such vessel from any port, deliver to the proper officer a list containing the names of all persons employed on board such vessel who have been ordered to be left behind, and the cause of their detention, and shall, in case of the failure to deliver such list, be subject to the same penalties as for failure to deliver the original list. Any person who knowingly conceals, harbors, or secretes, or assists in concealing, harboring, or secreting any alien crewman who has been ordered to be left behind, or who has deserted or landed, or who has not been duly shipped, engaged, or signed on articles as required by law, or who has been discharged, and who fails to deliver such alien crewman to the master, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which such alien crewman arrived, or from which such alien crewman deserted or landed, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing, refund to the master, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel the amount of any head tax paid by such master, agent, consignee, or master to the collector of customs for any alien crewman who shall have been ordered to be left behind, or who shall have deserted or landed, or who shall not have been duly shipped, engaged, or signed on articles as required by law, or who shall have been discharged, and who fails to deliver such alien crewman to the master, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which such alien crewman arrived, or from which such alien crewman deserted or landed, if it is proved by the affidavit of the master, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel, and by such other evidence as may be required by the Attorney General, that due diligence was exercised by such master, agent, consignee, or master to prevent the desertion of such alien crewman, or to cause the arrest and detention of such alien crewman, and that the cause of such desertion or failure to deliver such alien crewman was not due to any fault or negligence on the part of such master, agent, consignee, or master. (39 Stat. 888–890; 8 U. S. C. 171.)

C. 171), have been furnished, and not then unless notice of intention to the administrative authorities prescribed by said section or to that prescribed by section 35 of said Act (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 168) pursuant thereto, the deposit specified in §§ 150.13–150.17, inc. has been made.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained by quarantine as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alternate deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the foreign contiguous territory of the United States who knowingly brings to the United States any alien seaman employed on such vessel (other than a member of the crew) who does not have in his possession a valid passport and a valid visa, if a visa is required by the regulations of the Department of State, or who fails to detain on board such alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by said immigration officer so to do, or who fails to deport such alien seaman in accordance with the requirements of section 19 hereof, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom such correct lists are not delivered or a true report is not made as above required; and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty; but no such vessel shall be granted clearance if such alien seaman is detained by the immigration authorities for the purpose of testifying in connection with the prosecution of any person charged with violating the provisions of this section, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel deposits with the collector of customs a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General may prescribe, and shall remit upon the deportation of such seaman in the manner provided in section 19 hereof. This section, as amended, shall apply to all vessels arriving in the United States subsequent to June 2, 1924.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall not be duly reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be fined three times the sum of the head tax and the cost of his maintenance during detention, to be recovered by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such penalty to each seaman as may appear to him to be deserving of such remission on the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such penalty has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General. (43 Stat. 164–165, as amended; 8 U. S. C. 163 (a), 168 (c).)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws shall be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the foreign contiguous territory of such vessel, or any person who knowingly brings into the United States from such foreign contiguous territory any alien (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical officer in charge at the port of arrival, unless such alien has been inspected once and such inspection is then current and valid), or who fails to detain such alien on board until admitted or landed by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien so brought, and for each alien who fails to be detained on board as required, and for each alien who is afterward landed in the United States without the permission of the Secretary of Labor, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outgoing vessel on which he arrived in the United States or other vessel within the time allowed by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor, or that he was temporarily detained by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence to a failure to detain or deport such alien as required.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will be unduly expensive or impracticable, he may cause such alien to be detained on board or at such other place as he may designate pending his departure on another vessel within a period of one month, or may cause such alien to be removed from the vessel and detained in a hospital or other place of detention approved by the Attorney General. Such alien seaman shall not be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, or for such other reasons as may be prescribed by the Attorney General, under such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe, and such alien seaman shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. The cost of maintenance of any alien seaman detained under the provisions of this section shall be paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act.

SEC. 32. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman employed on such vessel shall furnish the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a list or manifest of all such alien seamen (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical officer in charge at the port of arrival, unless such alien has been inspected once and such inspection is then current and valid), or who fails to detain such alien seamen on board until such inspection or to deport such seamen if required by such immigration officer at the Attorney General so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine or penalty, or while any such fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine or penalty, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outgoing vessel on which he arrived in the United States or other vessel within the time allowed by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor, or that he was temporarily detained by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport such alien as required.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will be unduly expensive or impracticable, he may cause such alien to be detained on board or at such other place as he may designate pending his departure on another vessel within a period of one month, or may cause such alien to be removed from the vessel and detained in a hospital or other place of detention approved by the Attorney General. Such alien seaman shall not be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, or for such other reasons as may be prescribed by the Attorney General, under such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe, and such alien seaman shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. The cost of maintenance of any alien seaman detained under the provisions of this section shall be paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act.

(b) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel who knowingly or willfully brings to the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from foreign contiguous territory) any alien not duly admitted by an immigration officer at the time and place of such alien's arrival, or who knowingly or willfully takes from the United States to foreign contiguous territory any alien not duly admitted by an immigration officer at the time and place of such alien's departure, or who knowingly or willfully transports in the United States any such alien in furtherance of such unlawful entry or departure, shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each such alien, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both, in the case of the first such violation, and shall be fined not more than $5,000 for each such alien, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both, for each subsequent violation.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel has failed to comply with the provisions of subsection (a) or (b) of this section, he may require such vessel to remain at the port or place of arrival or departure pending compliance with such requirements as to the production of lists, manifests, or reports, the boarding and search of such vessel, and the detention on board thereof of any alien, for such period of time, not exceeding ten days, as may be necessary for such purpose. If any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel fails to comply with any such requirement within such period of time after such vessel is ready to depart, such vessel may be libeled therefor in the district court of the United States for the district in which such port or place is located, and may be required to file a bond in such sum, not exceeding $2,000 for each alien on board such vessel, as the court may determine to be sufficient to insure compliance with such requirements. Clearance of such vessel may be withheld pending the filing of such bond or the deposit of such sum.

(d) Every alien on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall be subject to such medical examination at the port of arrival as may be prescribed by regulations. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require any such alien to be detained in hospital if he shall establish to the satisfaction of the immigration officer in charge that he has the means and intention to leave the United States within such time as may be reasonably required for the purpose, and that he will not become a public charge.

(e) As used in this section, the term "vessel" includes every description of watercraft or other artificial contrivance used, or capable of being used, as a means of transportation on water, but does not include aircraft.

(f) Every alien on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall be subject to such inspection by immigration officers as may be prescribed by regulations. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require any such alien to be detained in hospital if he shall establish to the satisfaction of the immigration officer in charge that he has the means and intention to leave the United States within such time as may be reasonably required for the purpose, and that he will not become a public charge.

(g) Any person who violates any provision of this section or any regulation issued thereunder shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

(h) The Attorney General shall have power to enter into contracts with transportation lines for the inspection, at places outside the United States, of aliens coming to the United States, and to pay for the salaries and expenses of officers employed for such service. (43 Stat. 161, 8 U. S. C. 160)

SEC. 26. (a) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who knowingly or willfully brings to the United States any alien not duly admitted by an immigration officer at the time and place of such alien's arrival, or who knowingly or willfully takes from the United States to foreign contiguous territory any alien not duly admitted by an immigration officer at the time and place of such alien's departure, shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each such alien, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both, for each subsequent violation.

(b) If the Attorney General finds that any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel has failed to comply with the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, he may require such vessel to remain at the port or place of arrival or departure pending compliance with such requirements as to the production of lists, manifests, or reports, the boarding and search of such vessel, and the detention on board thereof of any alien, for such period of time, not exceeding ten days, as may be necessary for such purpose. If any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel fails to comply with any such requirement within such period of time after such vessel is ready to depart, such vessel may be libeled therefor in the district court of the United States for the district in which such port or place is located, and may be required to file a bond in such sum, not exceeding $2,000 for each alien on board such vessel, as the court may determine to be sufficient to insure compliance with such requirements. Clearance of such vessel may be withheld pending the filing of such bond or the deposit of such sum.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel has failed to comply with the provisions of subsection (a) or (b) of this section with respect to any alien on board such vessel, such vessel may be required to remain at the port or place of arrival or departure pending such compliance, and may be libeled therefor in the district court of the United States for the district in which such port or place is located, and may be required to file a bond in such sum, not exceeding $2,000 for each such alien, as the court may determine to be sufficient to insure compliance with the provisions of subsection (a) or (b) of this section with respect to such alien. Clearance of such vessel may be withheld pending the filing of such bond or the deposit of such sum.

(d) If any alien master excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of such alien's illness while such vessel is in port, the master shall be required to detain such alien on board or in such custody as the Attorney General may prescribe for the purpose of such alien's departure on such vessel or another vessel. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166)

(b) If any such alien shall have been admitted to the United States, and shall not have been duly inspected by an immigration officer at the time of such alien's entry, such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each such alien, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(c) If any such alien shall have been admitted to the United States, and shall not have been duly inspected by an immigration officer at the time of such alien's entry, such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each such alien, or imprisoned not more than one year, or both, if it appears that such alien was afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities which would be ground for the exclusion of such alien from the United States under section 3 of this Act, and that such disease, defect, or disability was known to such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master, or could have been known by the exercise of reasonable care. SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or unless a bond, in such amount and with such sureties as may be required by the Commissioner of Immigration, shall be deposited to guarantee the return of such alien from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on any other vessel which may be designated by the Commissioner of Immigration, within such period of time as may be specified by him, to a place outside the United States: Provided, That the Commissioner of Immigration may, in his discretion, waive the requirement of a bond in the case of any such alien who is in possession of a valid passport viséed by a consular officer of the United States, and who is otherwise admissible under the immigration laws.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board the vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain on board such vessel such seaman employed on such vessel until such immigration officer or the medical examiner has given him a permit to land, or who fails to detain such seaman in readiness to be sent on board the vessel on which he arrived or to such other vessel or vessels as may be designated by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which such seaman is required by such immigration officer to be detained a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman so detained, or may be required to furnish a bond in such sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman, conditioned upon the production of such seaman when required for examination or departure by the immigration officers or the Attorney General, or upon the payment of such sum, or any portion thereof, as may be required by the Attorney General in lieu of the production of such seaman, and conditioned also upon the payment of hospital expenses and burial charges of such seaman who may die while in the United States, and upon the payment of the cost of his maintenance while detained, at a rate not exceeding $3 per day, as may be prescribed by the Attorney General. Clearance may be withheld by the collector of customs from any vessel upon the departure of which a bond is required by the Attorney General under this section, and such vessel may be libeled in the district court of the United States for the district in which the seizure is made, and forfeited to the United States in case the master of such vessel shall depart therefrom without a clearance. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any penalty incurred under this section, in whole or in part, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just and proper.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the continental territory of the United States on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on any other vessel upon which he may be transferred by the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be taken before the commissioner of immigration or other officer in charge at the port of arrival for examination by a medical officer of the Public Health Service, and no such alien seaman shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or unless a bond, in such amount and with such sureties as may be required by the Commissioner of Immigration, shall be deposited to guarantee the return of such alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on any other vessel which may be designated by the Commissioner of Immigration, within such period of time as may be specified by him, to a place outside the United States: Provided, That the Commissioner of Immigration may, in his discretion, waive the requirement of a bond in the case of any such alien who is in possession of a valid passport viséed by a consular officer of the United States, and who is otherwise admissible under the immigration laws.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be charged against the vessel in connection with the granting of clearance. Any such alien seaman who has been granted clearance shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens generally, and the cost of his maintenance while detained, at a rate not exceeding $3 per day, and his transportation to the place of his residence, shall be paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof any alien who is not lawfully entitled to be admitted to the United States shall be required to take such alien to the country whence he came, or to the country from which he last departed, or to such other country as may be designated by such alien, and the cost of the maintenance of such alien while in the United States shall be paid by such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master to the collector of customs of the customs district in which such alien is found. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any penalty incurred under this section, in whole or in part, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just and proper.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the continental territory of the United States on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on any other vessel upon which he may be transferred by the master of such vessel as a seaman, shall be taken before the commissioner of immigration or other officer in charge at the port of arrival for examination by a medical officer of the Public Health Service, and no such alien seaman shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or unless a bond, in such amount and with such sureties as may be required by the Commissioner of Immigration, shall be deposited to guarantee the return of such alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on any other vessel which may be designated by the Commissioner of Immigration, within such period of time as may be specified by him, to a place outside the United States: Provided, That the Commissioner of Immigration may, in his discretion, waive the requirement of a bond in the case of any such alien who is in possession of a valid passport viséed by a consular officer of the United States, and who is otherwise admissible under the immigration laws.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be charged against the vessel in connection with the granting of clearance. Any such alien seaman who has been granted clearance shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of aliens generally, and the cost of his maintenance while detained, at a rate not exceeding $3 per day, and his transportation to the place of his residence, shall be paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act.

That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the position they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively applied to enlisted, and specifying those to be paid off, those who have died, and those who deserted in the port of arrival; to list separately all persons who have been taken on board from any other vessel or vessels, or from the shore, since the departure of such vessel from her last port of call, together with information likely to lead to the apprehension; and to furnish such other information in regard to such aliens as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, which lists shall be signed by the master, agent, consignee, or purser of such vessel, and verified by his oath before the departure of such vessel from her last port of call; and it shall be the duty of such master, agent, consignee, or purser to deliver to such immigration officer at the time of the arrival of such vessel at the first port of entry in the United States a list containing the names of all aliens employed who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival, but who may thereafter have been shipped or employed to complete the complement of any vessel, and to report to such immigration officer, at the time of the departure of such vessel from each port in the United States, the names of those, if any, who have deserted or landed; the names of all aliens employed who were discharged in such port; and the name of every alien who shall have been treated in a hospital during the period such vessel was in port. Every master, agent, consignee, or purser of any vessel who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Every alien arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the admission of such alien from the United States. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board the vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or unless in case of the death of a master or other member of the crew, or the substitution for any such seaman of another seaman, specific cause for the necessity of such substitution is shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor, and then only under such conditions as he may prescribe for the sufficient guarding of the public interest. Any such seaman who is permitted to land temporarily as provided in this section shall be deported when the vessel on which he arrived departs from the port, or sooner if required by any immigration officer, unless specifically authorized by the Secretary of Labor to remain in the United States for a definite period. Any such seaman who remains in the United States for a longer time than permitted by the Secretary of Labor shall be deported in the manner provided for the deportation of other aliens who have been admitted to the United States.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board the vessel any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection he shall cause shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs.

(b) Fines shall not be remitted by the master of any vessel on which the seaman shall have arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be refunded by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, unless it is established to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such seaman (a) was a stowaway, (b) was forced to land at such port by illness, wounds, or other cause for which the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or the vessel on which he arrived could not reasonably be held responsible, and (c) was not afforded reasonable opportunity to communicate with the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or the vessel on which he arrived.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense shall not be refunded unless such seaman has been held to all payment thereunder to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 13. (a) No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws shall be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from a place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness of such alien from the United States as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alleviation of such illness, or pending departure on the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel, until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or has taken such action as he deems necessary to determine whether such seaman is subject to exclusion from the United States under any law or treaty. Such seaman shall not be permitted to land in the United States if the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival knows or has reason to believe that such seaman belongs to any of the classes excluded from admission to the United States by section 3 of this Act, or by any other law or treaty, or that such seaman has been certified by the medical examiner for any cause to be suffering from a disease or disability which will endanger the public health, unless such seaman shall be certified by the medical examiner to be suffering only from a disease or disability curable within a reasonable time and will not endanger the public health during such time, and the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall grant such permission to land under such conditions as he may prescribe.

(b) Any alien seaman who lands in the United States during the period his vessel is in port, or who lands in the United States from any vessel at any time within five days after inspection of such seaman by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived shall have given a bond with sufficient surety, in such form and amount as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned that such seaman will depart from the United States on any vessel within such period of five days, or shall have been granted a landing certificate or permit by the Secretary of Labor or by such officer as he may designate for the purpose, or shall have been naturalized as a citizen of the United States, or shall have proved to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he was prevented by sickness, accident, or other cause beyond his control from complying with the provisions of this section within such period of five days, and such seaman has been granted a landing certificate or permit by the Secretary of Labor or by such officer as he may designate for the purpose. Any such alien seaman who shall depart from the United States within the period of five days after the arrival of such vessel at such port, except as provided in this section, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that his failure to depart was excusable or was not due to his own fault or neglect, and any such alien seaman who shall willfully refuse or fail to depart from the United States within a period of ten days after he shall have been ordered to depart, or who, after any such order of deportation shall become effective, shall return to the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. Any such alien seaman who shall depart from the United States within the period of five days after the arrival of such vessel at such port, except as provided in this section, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that his failure to depart was excusable or was not due to his own fault or neglect, and any such alien seaman who shall willfully refuse or fail to depart from the United States within a period of ten days after he shall have been ordered to depart, or who, after any such order of deportation shall become effective, shall return to the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deports now on the Attorney General's request is not paid within one year from the date of the order of deportation, or if the Secretary of State certifies that the government of the country to which an alien is ordered deported will not accept such alien into its territory within six months from the date of such certification, the Attorney General may cause such alien to be deported to any country which may be designated by such alien and which will accept such alien into its territory, except that such alien may be deported to any country which is contiguous to the United States or to any adjacent island unless such country is owned, controlled, or dominated by a government or by nationals thereof guilty of persistent refusal to receive back its deported subjects or citizens, or unless such country is a colony or dependency of a country which refuses to receive back such alien. If deportation to any country specified by such alien or to any country contiguous to the United States or to any adjacent island is impracticable or impossible or unreasonably delayed, or in the case of any alien sentenced to imprisonment who is likely to serve such sentence after the expiration of his period of deportation, the Attorney General may cause such alien to be deported to any country which is willing to receive him within the time specified by the Attorney General, and may pay the transportation of such alien and not to exceed $300 for each alien and the expenses incident to such deportation from any moneys appropriated for the enforcement of the immigration laws. The Attorney General may, in his discretion, authorize the deportation of any alien ordered deported under the provisions of this section to the country in which he was born or of which he is a citizen, subject, or national, or to any country in which he resided for more than two years before coming to the United States, if such country is willing to receive such alien

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of any regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the allowance thereof, and to secure the certificate required by section 10 of this Act, or pending the departure of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to deport on board such vessel any alien seaman employed on such vessel duly certified in the manifest of such alien, or who fails to deport any alien seaman on board such vessel when ordered so to do by the Attorney General, shall be required to pay a penalty of $300 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine or any part thereof, and such question shall be determined summarily by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $200 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. The decision of the Attorney General shall be final.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived, or on any vessel in which he shall thereafter depart from any place outside thereof, or who shall depart from the United States from any place outside thereof, or who shall land in the United States, shall be taken into custody and detained on board or at such other place as may be designated by the master of such vessel or by the immigration officer in charge of the port, pending the completion of the physical and mental examination of such alien seaman by the proper medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, and pending the decision as to whether he is to be allowed to land or is to be deported, and shall be deported on the vessel or vessels which brought him to the United States or on any vessel which can be utilized for his deportation by the master of such vessel or by the immigration officer in charge of the port, or by the Attorney General, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act, or of the owner of such vessel, or of the master thereof, as the Attorney General may direct. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this Act, or who shall fail to depart from the United States upon the vessel or vessels which brought him to the United States, or upon any vessel in which he shall thereafter depart from any place outside thereof, or upon the vessel or vessels designated by the master of such vessel or by the immigration officer in charge of the port, or by the Attorney General, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act, but the cost of his maintenance while on board vessel or in hospital, and his deportation, shall be borne by the owner of the vessel on which he arrived, or by the master thereof, and such owner and master shall be jointly and severally liable therefor. Any such owner or master who fails to comply with any order of the Attorney General issued under the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom he fails to comply with such order. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of which is liable to a penalty under this section, until such penalty is determined or deposit made to cover the same in such sum as the collector of customs may require. Any master, first officer, engineer, or such successor in command who shall fail to comply with the requirements of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. The vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, and in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid, no clearance shall be granted prior to the determination except upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof by the collector of customs.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien assigned on board of arrival will be prejudicial to the interests of the United States by reason of the nature of the offense of the vessel as a whole or of the character of the alien, he may, in lieu of deportation, require the master of the vessel to return the alien to the country whence he came, or to the country from which he embarked, or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen, at the option of the master of the vessel, and such vessel shall be required to receive such alien and return him to such country, and the master shall be liable to the actual and necessary expenses incurred in the maintenance of the alien while on board the vessel and in his detention at the port of arrival, and shall be liable to a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom he fails to comply with the provisions of this section. The vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, and in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid, no clearance shall be granted prior to the determination except upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine.

SEC. 10. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration law who has employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, or who has been employed on board any vessel engaged in the transportation of such alien from the United States to the country to which he belongs, or to some other country, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or otherwise to such extent and under such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe, or in case of the illness of such alien seaman requiring his removal from the vessel before its departure from the United States, or in case of the inability of the master of the vessel to replace such alien seaman without detriment to the vessel, or in case the Attorney General is satisfied that such alien seaman was shipped in good faith and has been employed for the sole purpose of working his passage to the United States, and that he intends to depart from the United States upon the vessel upon which he arrived or some other vessel within a reasonable time to be determined by the Attorney General, and that he has not been employed on board any vessel during its stay in any port of the United States for a longer period than is necessary for the purpose of discharging cargo and taking on board cargo for the return voyage, or for the purpose of repairing the vessel, and that he will not be employed on board any vessel during its stay in the United States before departing therefrom, and that he is not a member of a class of aliens who, upon examination by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, certified to the Attorney General as suffering from a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, and that he is not a native of, or a citizen or subject of, a country which is not willing to accept him back from the United States: Provided, That the master of the vessel on which any such alien seaman arrives shall deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a sum sufficient in the opinion of the Attorney General to pay the cost of maintenance while in the United States and the return passage of such alien seaman, unless such master shall give a bond with sufficient surety, to be approved by the Attorney General, in such sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such bond is given, conditioned for the payment of such cost of maintenance and return passage. Any such alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof. (43 Stat. 164–165, as amended; 8 U. S. SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of entry a list or manifest of all persons, including the members of the crew, alien and citizen, who may be destined to the United States, and to report the names of all aliens employed on board such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be landed in the port of entry; to make oath to the correctness of such list or manifest before the proper officer; and to produce for the inspection of each alien employed on board such vessel such certificates, passports, and other documents as may be required by the provisions of this Act and by such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Such list or manifest shall be in such form and contain such information likely to lead to the ascertainment whether any person or persons are subject to any of the grounds for exclusion set forth in this Act, and such other information pertaining to each alien named therein as the Commissioner General of Immigration may deem necessary for the proper administration of this Act and of the rules and regulations made pursuant thereto. The master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel shall furnish to the immigrant inspector at the time of the inspection of the vessel full and complete information concerning the persons on board such vessel, the ports at which they severally embarked and intend to disembark, the ports through which they have passed in the course of their journey, and such other matters or things as may be required for the full identification of each person on board and the verification of the list or manifest required to be delivered by this section. Such list or manifest shall be prepared in quadruplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the immigrant inspector at the time of the inspection of the vessel at the port of arrival, and the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel shall be required to deliver a duplicate copy of such list or manifest to the immigrant inspector at each additional port at which the vessel may touch before entry is granted by the Attorney General, but no fee shall be charged or collected for the delivery of such duplicate copy. One copy of such list or manifest shall be delivered to the collector of customs at the customs district in which the port of first arrival is located at the time of inspection by the immigrant inspector, and one copy shall be delivered to the Attorney General at the seat of government. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who refuses or fails to deliver such list or manifest, or refuses or fails to deliver either copy thereof, or who refuses or fails to make oath to the same when required, or who refuses or fails to report, or who reports incorrectly or falsely, the number of aliens employed on board such vessel, or who refuses or fails to deliver to the immigrant inspector any information in his possession concerning the persons on board such vessel, or who refuses or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this section or with any rules or regulations made pursuant thereto, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each and every such offense. The Attorney General may, in his discretion, remit any fine or penalty provided for by this section or any part of such fine or penalty and may release any vessel, vehicle, or aircraft or any part thereof, seized for violation of this section, upon the payment of such sum as he may deem reasonable under all the circumstances of the case.

No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or quarantine as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (except from foreign contiguous territory) shall be responsible for the proper conduct while in port of any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has granted to such alien seaman a permit to land, or has delivered such alien seaman to the master of the vessel for departure, or has delivered such alien seaman to the custody of the proper immigration officer for removal, deportation, or hospital treatment, or has otherwise complied with the regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or medical treatment of such alien from the United States. Such expenses shall be recoverable by the Attorney General from such vessel, or from the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof, jointly and severally, in any court of competent jurisdiction. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped to embark, and the ports at which they intend to disembark, respectively, so far as known, and such other information regarding them as the Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe: and alien members of the crew of any such vessel shall not be allowed to land temporarily unless specifically authorized so to do by the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, and then only under such conditions as he may prescribe; and any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense. Before the departure of any such vessel from a port in the United States the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof shall deliver to the immigration officer in charge of the port a list containing the names of all aliens employed on board, and the last foreign port or place from which each such alien came to the United States and the contract labor destination of each such alien. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who knowingly fails to report, list, deliver, or make any such declaration or statement concerning any such alien seaman, or who knowingly lands or permits to land any such alien seaman, except as provided by this section, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such fine, or while any such fine remains unpaid, except that clearance papers may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers in any case in which the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof has been guilty of failure to deposit or pay the fine or fines imposed by this section, or has been guilty of any violation of the provisions of this section, unless and until the payment of such fine or fines has been assured to the satisfaction of the collector of customs or the Secretary of Commerce, or the remission thereof has been decreed by the Secretary of Commerce. (43 Stat. 161, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

SEC. 37. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from foreign contiguous territory) any person who is afflicted with any of the physical or mental defects or disabilities set forth in section 2 of this Act, shall be required to detain such person on board or at the immigration station at the port of arrival, as the Commissioner of Immigration may direct, until a certificate has been issued by the medical examiner certifying as to the condition of such person. Such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel shall be required to remove any such person certified to be afflicted with any such defect or disability to some place outside the United States within such time as may be specified by the Commissioner of Immigration, not exceeding five days after the date of such certification, unless the Secretary of Labor shall extend the time for such removal. Such removal shall be at the expense of the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel bringing such person to the United States, and, if any such person shall become a public charge within two years after the date of such entry into the United States, the cost of his maintenance and support while a public charge shall be recovered from the owner of the vessel bringing him to the United States. Such cost shall constitute a lien upon the vessel, which may be enforced by libel in any district court of the United States within the jurisdiction of which the vessel may be found. The Commissioner of Immigration may require a bond in such sum, not exceeding $500, as he may think necessary, conditioned for the removal of any such person who may become a public charge within two years after entry, and for the payment of the cost of his maintenance and support while a public charge, or may require a deposit of cash in such sum to secure the United States against any such cost. Such bond or deposit may be sued upon or applied by the Secretary of Labor, in his discretion, for the reimbursement of any public funds expended for the maintenance and support of any such person.

(b) If the Secretary of Labor shall deem the detention on board or at the immigration station of any person certified under this section unnecessary, he may cause such person to be removed from the vessel or place of detention subject to such conditions as he may prescribe for the protection of the United States and its people against the introduction of any dangerous contagious disease.

(c) Every alien who shall come in violation of any of the provisions of this section shall be taken upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor and returned to the country whence he came, or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen, by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel in which he arrived, and shall be placed on board such vessel by the officers of the United States charged with the execution of the laws thereof. Such vessel shall not be granted clearance pending the adjudication of the case of any person certified under this section, nor while any such person remains on board thereof, unless a bond is furnished in such sum, not exceeding $500 for each person, as the Secretary of Labor may require, conditioned for the return of such person to the country whence he came. Pending the return of any such person, he shall be kept in such manner as the Secretary of Labor may direct, and the cost of his maintenance shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel in which he arrived. (44 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

Compensation shall not be allowed for the detention on board or at the immigration station of any person certified under this section, nor for the detention of any person whose return to the country whence he came is delayed by reason of the refusal of the consular officer of the country to which he belongs or by which he was last naturalized, or by a consular officer of the country adjacent to the United States, to issue a passport to, or viséing a passport of, such person.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor shall deem the detention on board or at the immigration station of any person certified under this section unnecessary, he may cause such person to be removed from the vessel or place of detention subject to such conditions as he may prescribe for the protection of the United States and its people against the introduction of any dangerous contagious disease.

(d) Every alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States under the provisions of section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917, as amended, shall be taken under the warrant of the Secretary of Labor and returned to the country whence he came, or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen, by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel in which he arrived, and shall be placed on board such vessel by the officers of the United States charged with the execution of the laws thereof. Such vessel shall not be granted clearance pending the adjudication of the case of any person certified under this section, nor while any such person remains on board thereof, unless a bond is furnished in such sum, not exceeding $500 for each person, as the Secretary of Labor may require, conditioned for the return of such person to the country whence he came. Pending the return of any such person, he shall be kept in such manner as the Secretary of Labor may direct, and the cost of his maintenance shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel in which he arrived. Compensation shall not be allowed for the detention on board or at the immigration station of any person certified under this section, nor for the detention of any person whose return to the country whence he came is delayed by reason of the refusal of the consular officer of the country to which he belongs or by which he was last naturalized, or by a consular officer of the country adjacent to the United States, to issue a passport to, or viséing a passport of, such person.

No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the same remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, upon application in writing therefor, wherein such deposit is declared to be made. The decision, as rendered, shall apply to all persons subject to such fine, or to a bond filed therefor, and no fine in excess of $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs shall be imposed. Clearance may be granted any vessel prohibited from receiving clearance papers by reason of the provisions of this section upon the filing of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of such fine as may be finally imposed therefor by the collector of customs. The Secretary of Labor may, upon application in writing therefor, authorize such deposit to be made in lieu of such bond. The Secretary of Labor shall prescribe rules governing the application of this section, as amended. Such rules may require as far as practicable the application in writing therefor to be made by the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or their duly authorized representatives, and may prescribe the information to be furnished thereby. Such rules may also prescribe the form of and the information to be contained in the bond which may be required to be given under authority of this section.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not obtain a visa before the embarkation of such seaman at a foreign port shall be prima facie evidence for the purposes of this section that such seaman did not obtain a visa before embarkation. (43 Stat. 162; 8 U. S. C. 170 (a), 170 (b).)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that any country, dependency, province, or other subdivision of government declines to accept a deportee, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain a certificate from the immigration officer at the port of departure that the deportee was not a citizen, subject, national, or resident of such country, dependency, province, or other subdivision of government, unless such deportee shall prove to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that he sought such certificate and that it was refused him. Amendments to the foregoing provisions may be made from time to time in the discretion of the Attorney General.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector posted at the port of arrival, not in advance of taking on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port of arrival in the United States or at the first port of call in the United States if the vessel does not touch at a port in passing from a foreign port. The list to originate on board a vessel of foreign registry (Form I-418) not to be delivered to the master or agent of the vessel until the list has been approved by the immigration officer at the port. When an alternative manifest is used, additional copies may be required by the master as directed by the immigration officer.

Each list must be complete, legible, and correct before it is delivered by the master to the immigration officer, and any changes or additions necessary to make the list correct must be noted in ink before the master delivers the list. Any omissions, changes, or additions to the list after it has been delivered to the immigration officer must be noted on a supplemental list and delivered to the immigration officer before the vessel departs from the port, unless the vessel departs from the port without notice to the master, in which case the master must deliver the supplemental list to the immigration officer at the first port of call thereafter. Each list must be numbered consecutively, and the last number must be certified to by the master. Any omissions, changes, or additions to the list must be noted in ink before the master delivers the list to the immigration officer, and must be certified to by the master. Each list must be signed by the master in ink at the end thereof.

Sec. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of an emergency rendering his detention on board dangerous to the life or safety of the vessel or those on board, until a certificate has been issued by the Attorney General to the master of such vessel that in his opinion the safety of the vessel or those on board will not be endangered by the landing of such seaman, and such certificate may be revoked by the Attorney General at any time within three days after the departure of such vessel from the last port in the United States at which such seaman landed. Any such seaman who shall land in the United States during the period such vessel is required by this section to have remained in the United States, and who shall not have been issued a certificate by the Attorney General permitting him to land, or who has been issued such a certificate which has been revoked, and who shall not depart on the vessel on which he arrived or some other vessel within the time specified by the Attorney General, shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 of this Act to the country in which he boarded the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or to the country in which he resided at the time of his last entry into the United States, at the option of the Attorney General. Any master who shall fail to comply with any requirement of this section or any regulation issued thereunder, or who shall refuse or fail to remove any such seaman on board the vessel or cause him to be removed therefrom for the purpose of complying with any such requirement, shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, or while any such penalty remains unpaid, and no such vessel, or any other vessel owned in whole or in part by the owner of such vessel, shall be granted clearance while the master or owner of such vessel is liable to the payment of any such penalty for which bond has been given with sufficient surety, unless such master or owner shall deposit with the collector the amount of such penalty, or such bond shall be delivered up, or cancelled, as the case may be. Clearance may be granted to any vessel prevented from sailing within the period of three days by reason of the provisions of this section upon the production to the collector of a certificate from a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service that no case of smallpox existed on board the vessel at the time of departure. Nothing in this section shall be construed to impair or affect the right of any person to a writ of habeas corpus.

(c) Every alien (except alien members of the crew who have been admitted to the United States and employed on board the vessel during its stay in port) who arrives in the United States by water, whether destined to a port therein or not, shall, if he remains more than twenty-four hours, be required by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel to depart on it or some other vessel, and the cost of his maintenance while in port and of his passage to the port of departure shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel. If any such alien is destined to a foreign country other than that from which he arrived, he shall be required to depart to such country, unless he is admissible as an immigrant to the United States and shall be admitted by an immigration officer at the port of departure. If any such alien is destined to a country which refuses to permit his entry, he may be required to depart to the country from which he arrived in the United States. All the provisions of this section relating to aliens shall apply to the case of any alien who has been admitted to the United States and who is destined to a foreign country other than that from which he arrived in the United States, except that the cost of his maintenance while in port and of his passage to the port of departure shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, unless the Attorney General is of the opinion that the cost of such maintenance and passage should be paid from the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor for the fiscal year in which the alien arrived in the United States.

(d) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel is employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof with intent to bring in aliens who are not admissible under the immigration laws, or to permit the landing of such aliens in violation of law, the vessel shall be denied clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty provided for in this section, and if any such penalty is not paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel within ten days after the question of the liability to the payment thereof shall have been finally determined against the vessel, such vessel shall be liable to seizure and forfeiture to the United States, and it shall be the duty of the collector of customs to whom application is made for clearance of the vessel to withhold clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, and to detain the vessel until such penalty shall be paid or secured to be paid, or until notified by the Attorney General that the vessel may be granted clearance.

(e) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel has been employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof in violation of the provisions of this section, such vessel shall be denied clearance from any port in the United States during a period of two years thereafter.

Sec. 20. (a) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel who shall bring to the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from foreign contiguous territory) any alien who has a communicable disease of a type which would be a ground for exclusion under section 3 of this Act, or who has been certified by the boarding officer at any port of entry into the United States to be suffering from any such disease, or who fails to report the illness of any such alien, or who brings to the United States any alien who has been deported under the provisions of this Act, or who has been refused a visa as an immigrant, visitor, or alien seaman by any consular officer, unless prior to the application of such alien for a visa the consular officer to whom such application was made was informed of the fact that such alien intended to proceed to the United States in such vessel, shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien, and may also be required to remove such alien to the country whence he came or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen.

(b) Every alien (except alien members of the crew who have been admitted to the United States and employed on board the vessel during its stay in port) who arrives in the United States by water, whether destined to a port therein or not, shall, if he remains more than twenty-four hours, be required by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel to depart on it or some other vessel, and the cost of his maintenance while in port and of his passage to the port of departure shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel. If any such alien is destined to a country other than that from which he arrived, he shall be required to depart to such country, unless he is admissible as an immigrant to the United States and shall be admitted by an immigration officer at the port of departure. If any such alien is destined to a country which refuses to permit his entry, he may be required to depart to the country from which he arrived in the United States. All the provisions of this section relating to aliens shall apply to the case of any alien who has been admitted to the United States and who is destined to a foreign country other than that from which he arrived in the United States, except that the cost of his maintenance while in port and of his passage to the port of departure shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, unless the Attorney General is of the opinion that the cost of such maintenance and passage should be paid from the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor for the fiscal year in which the alien arrived in the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel has been employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof in violation of the provisions of this section, such vessel shall be denied clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty provided for in this section, and if any such penalty is not paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel within ten days after the question of the liability to the payment thereof shall have been finally determined against the vessel, such vessel shall be liable to seizure and forfeiture to the United States, and it shall be the duty of the collector of customs to whom application is made for clearance of the vessel to withhold clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, and to detain the vessel until such penalty shall be paid or secured to be paid, or until notified by the Attorney General that the vessel may be granted clearance.

(d) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel has been employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof in violation of the provisions of this section, such vessel shall be denied clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty provided for in this section, and if any such penalty is not paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel within ten days after the question of the liability to the payment thereof shall have been finally determined against the vessel, such vessel shall be liable to seizure and forfeiture to the United States, and it shall be the duty of the collector of customs to whom application is made for clearance of the vessel to withhold clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, and to detain the vessel until such penalty shall be paid or secured to be paid, or until notified by the Attorney General that the vessel may be granted clearance.

(e) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel has been employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof in violation of the provisions of this section, such vessel shall be denied clearance from any port in the United States during a period of two years thereafter.

Sec. 20. (a) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel who shall bring to the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from foreign contiguous territory) any alien who has a communicable disease of a type which would be a ground for exclusion under section 3 of this Act, or who has been certified by the boarding officer at any port of entry into the United States to be suffering from any such disease, or who fails to report the illness of any such alien, or who brings to the United States any alien who has been deported under the provisions of this Act, or who has been refused a visa as an immigrant, visitor, or alien seaman by any consular officer, unless prior to the application of such alien for a visa the consular officer to whom such application was made was informed of the fact that such alien intended to proceed to the United States in such vessel, shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien, and may also be required to remove such alien to the country whence he came or to the country of which he is a subject or citizen.

(b) Every alien (except alien members of the crew who have been admitted to the United States and employed on board the vessel during its stay in port) who arrives in the United States by water, whether destined to a port therein or not, shall, if he remains more than twenty-four hours, be required by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel to depart on it or some other vessel, and the cost of his maintenance while in port and of his passage to the port of departure shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel. If any such alien is destined to a country other than that from which he arrived, he shall be required to depart to such country, unless he is admissible as an immigrant to the United States and shall be admitted by an immigration officer at the port of departure. If any such alien is destined to a country which refuses to permit his entry, he may be required to depart to the country from which he arrived in the United States. All the provisions of this section relating to aliens shall apply to the case of any alien who has been admitted to the United States and who is destined to a foreign country other than that from which he arrived in the United States, except that the cost of his maintenance while in port and of his passage to the port of departure shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, unless the Attorney General is of the opinion that the cost of such maintenance and passage should be paid from the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor for the fiscal year in which the alien arrived in the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel has been employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof in violation of the provisions of this section, such vessel shall be denied clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty provided for in this section, and if any such penalty is not paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel within ten days after the question of the liability to the payment thereof shall have been finally determined against the vessel, such vessel shall be liable to seizure and forfeiture to the United States, and it shall be the duty of the collector of customs to whom application is made for clearance of the vessel to withhold clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, and to detain the vessel until such penalty shall be paid or secured to be paid, or until notified by the Attorney General that the vessel may be granted clearance.

(d) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel has been employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof in violation of the provisions of this section, such vessel shall be denied clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty provided for in this section, and if any such penalty is not paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel within ten days after the question of the liability to the payment thereof shall have been finally determined against the vessel, such vessel shall be liable to seizure and forfeiture to the United States, and it shall be the duty of the collector of customs to whom application is made for clearance of the vessel to withhold clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, and to detain the vessel until such penalty shall be paid or secured to be paid, or until notified by the Attorney General that the vessel may be granted clearance.

(e) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel has been employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof in violation of the provisions of this section, such vessel shall be denied clearance from any port in the United States during a period of two years thereafter.

Sec. 36. That upon arrival by vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, agent, consignee, or any owner of such vessel, whether it be a vessel carrying cabin passengers or not, to report and deliver to the proper immigration officer at the port of arrival full and complete information concerning each alien who may be on board such vessel, whether he has been granted a visa or not, and such other information relative to such alien as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person acting in their behalf, and to detain on board or at quarantine such alien if required to do so by such officer, and to prevent the landing of such alien, except temporarily for medical treatment, or in case of an epidemic, until a certificate has been issued by the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service that the sanitary conditions on board such vessel are such as to warrant the landing of such alien, and to deliver such alien on board such vessel to the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure when required so to do. Any master, agent, consignee, or any owner of such vessel willfully failing to comply with the requirements of this section or any regulation issued thereunder, or who shall refuse or fail to remove any such alien on board the vessel or cause him to be removed therefrom for the purpose of complying with any such requirement, shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of any such penalty, or while any such penalty remains unpaid, and no such vessel, or any other vessel owned in whole or in part by the owner of such vessel, shall be granted clearance while the master or owner of such vessel is liable to the payment of any such penalty for which bond has been given with sufficient surety, unless such master or owner shall deposit with the collector the amount of such penalty, or such bond shall be delivered up, or cancelled, as the case may be. Clearance may be granted to any vessel prevented from sailing within the period of three days by reason of the provisions of this section upon the production to the collector of a certificate from a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service that no case of smallpox existed on board the vessel at the time of departure. Nothing in this section shall be construed to impair or affect the right of any person to a writ of habeas corpus. If any such alien is destined to a country other than that from which he arrived, he shall be required to depart to such country, unless he is admissible as an immigrant to the United States and shall be admitted by an immigration officer at the port of departure. If any such alien is destined to a country which refuses to permit his entry, he may be required to depart to the country from which he arrived in the United States. All the provisions of this section relating to aliens shall apply to the case of any alien who has been admitted to the United States and who is destined to a foreign country other than that from which he arrived in the United States, except that the cost of his maintenance while in port and of his passage to the port of departure shall be paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, unless the Attorney General is of the opinion that the cost of such maintenance and passage should be paid from the appropriation for the expenses of the Department of Labor for the fiscal year in which the alien arrived in the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General shall be of the opinion that any vessel has been employed by the master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof in violation of the provisions of this section, such vessel shall be denied clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of the penalty provided for in this section, and if any such penalty is not paid by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel within ten days after the question of the liability to the payment thereof shall have been finally determined against the vessel, such vessel shall be liable to seizure and forfeiture to the United States, and it shall be the duty of the collector of customs to whom application is made for clearance of the vessel to withhold clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such penalty, and to detain the vessel until such penalty shall be paid or secured to be paid, or until notified by the Attorney General that the vessel may be granted clearance.

Sec. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from foreign contiguous territory) shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of an emergency rendering his detention on board dangerous to the life or safety of the vessel or those on board, until a certificate has been issued by the Attorney General to the master of such vessel that in his opinion the safety of the vessel or those on board will not be endangered by the landing of such seaman, and such certificate may be revoked by the Attorney General at any time within three days after the departure of such vessel from the last port in the United States at which such seaman landed. Any such seaman who shall land in the United States during the period such vessel is required by this section to have remained in the United States, and who shall not have been issued a certificate by the Attorney General permitting him to land, or who has been issued such a certificate which has been revoked, and who shall not depart on the vessel on which he arrived or some other vessel within the time specified by the Attorney General, shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 of this Act to the country in which he boarded the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or to the country in which he resided at the time of his last entry into the United States, at the option of the Attorney General. Any master who shall fail to comply with any requirement of this section or any regulation issued thereunder, or who shall refuse or fail to remove any such seaman on board the vessel or cause him to be removed therefrom for the purpose of complying with any such requirement, shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of any such penalty, or while any such penalty remains unpaid, and no such vessel, or any other vessel owned in whole or in part by the owner of such vessel, shall be granted clearance while the master or owner of such vessel is liable to the payment of any such penalty for which bond has been given with sufficient surety, unless such master or owner shall deposit with the collector the amount of such penalty, or such bond shall be delivered up, or cancelled, as the case may be. Clearance may be granted to any vessel prevented from sailing within the period of three days by reason of the provisions of this section upon the production to the collector of a certificate from a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service that no case of smallpox existed on board the vessel at the time of departure. The Attorney General may upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such landing occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper.

The section as amended, shall apply to all deserting alien crewmen irrespective of the date of their entry into the United States.

(b) That [Sec. 2] an alien seaman did not appear upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain or deposit such readmittance by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid to the persons designated by the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States, shall be permitted to land in the United States except under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel at the time of its arrival in the United States from any place outside the United States, who shall not depart on board thereof, or on some other vessel, at the time of the departure of such vessel from the United States, unless specially permitted by the Secretary of Labor to land, shall be deported in pursuance of the provisions of section 19 of this Act, and shall be deported on the vessel bringing him to the United States, if practicable, unless the Secretary of Labor shall determine that such vessel is unseaworthy. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section, or who shall fail to depart with the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel, shall be presumed to have landed with the intention to remain in the United States permanently, and shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 180.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof any alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board such vessel, shall be permitted to land in the United States from such vessel temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation of such alien from the United States, except upon the conditions hereinafter provided in this section. Such owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board such vessel shall, in the discretion of the Attorney General, be required to deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a bond in such amount, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman, as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned for the deportation of such alien seaman in pursuance of the provisions of this section, and for the payment of the hospital expenses and burial expenses of such alien seaman who may become ill or die during the period of his employment on board such vessel or during the period of his detention in the United States under the provisions of this section, and for the payment of the cost of his maintenance during such period of detention, at a rate to be fixed by the Secretary of Labor, not exceeding $3 per day for each such alien seaman. Such bond shall be in lieu of the deposit of the head tax required by section 2 of the Act of February 5, 1917, and the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is hereby authorized to refund to the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel the amount of any head tax deposited by him for any alien seaman who is permitted to land temporarily under the provisions of this section, and who is not required to pay the head tax upon his departure from the United States. Such bond shall be discharged when the alien seaman has departed from the United States, or has been granted permission to land permanently, or has been duly admitted to the United States, or has been delivered to the master of the vessel on which he arrived for deportation, or has been delivered to the master of some other vessel for deportation, or has been delivered to the immigration authorities for deportation, or has been delivered to a public officer for the purpose of prosecution, and a certificate to that effect has been filed with the collector of customs by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer who shall refuse or fail to deport any alien seaman specified in this section, when ordered so to do by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman with respect to whom such refusal or failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance in which the port of arrival is located the master of which has been required to deposit a bond or pay a head tax under the provisions of this section, or any other section of this Act, or of any law regulating the immigration of aliens to the United States, until such bond has been discharged or such head tax refunded, or clearance granted by the Secretary of Labor. Clearance may be granted any vessel, the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of which has complied with the provisions of this section, notwithstanding the refusal of any alien seaman employed on board thereof to depart therein, if such refusal is reported to the Secretary of Labor and clearance granted by him. Any vessel which shall depart or attempt to depart from the United States in violation of this section, or from which any alien seaman shall depart or attempt to depart in violation of this section, shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing received prior to the departure of the vessel from the United States, remit any penalty incurred under this section, or any part thereof, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and proper, and may, in his discretion, mitigate the same upon the payment of such sum as he may deem appropriate and just. The Attorney General is authorized to prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 180.)

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on some other vessel within the time specified in this section, or that he was employed on board any vessel during such time, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after the termination of such time. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing received prior to the departure of the vessel from the United States, remit any penalty incurred under this section, or any part thereof, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem appropriate and just. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 180.)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a master has complied with the regulations of the Attorney General with respect to the detention of alien seamen on board vessels at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel is unseaworthy, and so certifies to the Secretary of Labor, the cost of such detention shall not be charged against the vessel. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 181 (a).) (43 Stat. 164–165, 258 Stat. 418; 8 U. S. C. 181 (b), 181 (c).)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws but employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or by reason of the necessity to secure other seamen in his place, or because the Secretary of Labor shall determine that separate treatment of such alien from the United States is required to protect the welfare of the community or the shipping interests of the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 26. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or by reason of the necessity to secure other seamen in his place, or because the Secretary of Labor shall determine that separate treatment of such alien from the United States is required to protect the welfare of the community or the shipping interests of the United States, shall be permitted to land in the United States from any place outside thereof, any alien seaman employed on board thereof, unless such alien seaman shall have been duly certified by the consular officer at the port at which he was engaged, or at the port at which such vessel touched next before her arrival at a port in the United States, as having been examined and found to be not affected with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities specified in subdivisions (a), (b), (c), and (d) of section 3 of this Act, and unless such consular officer has indorsed upon the certificate of such examination issued to such alien seaman the words "Approved for one trip to the United States", and has signed his name in full thereto with the date of such indorsement. Such certificate shall be prima facie evidence that such alien seaman was not affected with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities specified in subdivisions (a), (b), (c), and (d) of section 3 of this Act at the time of the issuance of such certificate. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States without having been granted such certificate, or who shall land at any port other than a port at which he was granted such certificate, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act, unless such alien seaman shall be duly certified by the consular officer at the port of arrival to be entitled to one of the exemptions provided for in this section. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or person in charge of any vessel who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to deportation of any alien seaman detained on board, unless security satisfactory to the collector of customs is furnished to indemnify the United States against the loss which may result from the detention of such seaman on board. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, authorize the landing of any such seaman in temporary charge of a watchman, to be furnished by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel, at a cost not exceeding $3.50 for each seaman so landed, such vessel to be liable to the United States for any expenses incurred in the apprehension and detention of any such seaman who shall not depart on the vessel.

(b) Every alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall be required, before such vessel departs from the port or place in the United States at which she shall first arrive, to make application for the issuance to him of a certificate of identification, and to be registered and fingerprinted by the immigration officer at such port or place, and no such alien seaman shall be employed on board any vessel departing from any port or place in the United States unless he has been registered and fingerprinted as aforesaid and has been granted a certificate of identification by the immigration officer at such port or place, which certificate shall be presented by such alien seaman to the master of such vessel before such vessel shall depart from such port or place. Such certificate shall be granted only upon the production by such alien seaman of a certificate of identification issued to him by the immigration officer at the last port in a foreign country at which such alien seaman arrived by sea before coming to the United States, or, if arriving by land, at the port of entry in the United States, unless such alien seaman is unable to produce such certificate of identification through no fault of his own or the connivance of the master or owner of the vessel on which he arrived, or unless such alien seaman is in possession of a valid passport issued by the country of which he is a national, or, if he is a stateless alien, by the country in which he resides, and has been duly viséed by a consular officer of the United States. Any alien seaman who shall fail to comply with the requirements of this subdivision shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act, unless such alien seaman shall be duly certified by the consular officer at the port of arrival to be entitled to one of the exemptions provided for in this section. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or person in charge of any vessel who shall violate any of the provisions of this subdivision shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, authorize the landing of any such seaman in temporary charge of a watchman, to be furnished by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel, at a cost not exceeding $3.50 for each seaman so landed, such vessel to be liable to the United States for any expenses incurred in the apprehension and detention of any such seaman who shall not depart on the vessel.

(c) If the Attorney General shall find that qualifications of the alien seaman, or the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or the intended service of such alien seaman on board any vessel departing from the United States, are such as to endanger the welfare, safety, or security of the United States, he may require the deportation of such alien seaman to any country which he may designate, and such alien seaman shall be deported to such country in the manner provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act, unless such country refuses to receive such alien seaman, in which case the deportation of such alien seaman shall be to any country which is willing to receive him. The cost of any such deportation shall be borne by the owner of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel on which he arrived in the United States and who shall desert or who shall remain in the United States for a longer time than the period for which he was granted a conditional landing permit, shall be deported in the manner provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act, unless such alien seaman shall be duly certified by the consular officer at the port of arrival to be entitled to one of the exemptions provided for in this section. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or person in charge of any vessel who shall violate any of the provisions of this subdivision shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, authorize the landing of any such seaman in temporary charge of a watchman, to be furnished by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel, at a cost not exceeding $3.50 for each seaman so landed, such vessel to be liable to the United States for any expenses incurred in the apprehension and detention of any such seaman who shall not depart on the vessel.

(e) If any alien seaman employed on any vessel arriving in the United States shall desert, the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or person in charge of such vessel shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he has complied with such regulations governing the discharge of alien seamen as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 169.)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board the vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate deportation, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board thereof any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), or who fails to detain each seaman on board after such inspection or to deport each seaman whenever it is required by the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10.00 to each such alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while such fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond satisfactory to the Attorney General or his designated agent, conditioned for the payment of such fine. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, if he shall be satisfied that the vessel has been operated in good faith and without negligence on the part of the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or operator thereof. (b) Every alien seaman who shall depart from the United States shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or operator of the vessel on which he arrived shall deposit with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $30 for each alien seaman, to insure the departure of such alien seaman from the United States. The head of the Department of Labor may, upon application in writing, refund to the depositor the deposit made on account of any alien seaman who has been lawfully admitted to the United States or who has departed therefrom for a period sufficient to indicate that he has left the United States permanently, or who has died. No such refund shall be made unless the application therefor is filed with the Secretary of Labor within two years from the date of the deposit. All moneys deposited under the provisions of this section and remaining unclaimed for two years shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States as a special fund to be used in the enforcement of the immigration laws. (c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that any seaman has been refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such seaman on such vessel. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 167.)

(d) Every alien seaman who does not depart from the continental territory of the United States with the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or who departs from such territory otherwise than as a member of the crew of such vessel, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, charterer, or operator of such vessel deposits with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $30 for each such seaman, to insure the departure of such seaman from the United States. The head of the Department of Labor may, upon application in writing therefor, refund to the depositor the deposit made on account of any alien seaman who has been lawfully admitted to the United States or who has departed therefrom for a period sufficient to indicate that he has left the United States permanently, or who has died. No such refund shall be made unless the application therefor is filed with the Secretary of Labor within two years from the date of the deposit. All moneys deposited under the provisions of this section and remaining unclaimed for two years shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States as a special fund to be used in the enforcement of the immigration laws. (e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seamen on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that any seaman has been refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such seaman on such vessel. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 167 (a), (b), (c).)
